More hot, sunny days are in store for Victoria and most of Vancouver Island, weatherman William Mackie said last night.

A weak disturbance moving down through the B.C. interior will bring relief for areas east and north of here. But, for Victoria, weather will continue the same, with temperatures in the 70s and -80s.

Crisis Close Over Berlin

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four Monday night reached the sticking point in their quest for a Berlin truce.

All the signs suggest a critical climax is at hand in the foreign ministers' seven-week talks.

Unless something unexpected happens it looks as though both the Russians and the Western Allies are about to dig in on what to each side is a vital principle of policy over Germany.

POLITICAL FUTURE

The issue:

Should the East and West Germans be allowed to come together by themselves to talk about the political future of their divided land?

The Russians are insisting they must do so in one way or another. Otherwise the Allies must risk losing the Soviet offer of an 18-month freeze on the status of West Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France, with ranks closed at last, say "no"—the East and West Germans cannot settle their political fate alone. It's up to the Big Four to arrange the reunion.

SOVIET STIFFENS

The Soviet leaders seem to be stiffening their international postures.

This could be diplomatic bluff intended to wreck Western unity. But it could be that the Russians really mean what they say.

Rattlers Attack Snake Cultists

HARLAN, Ky. (AP)—Bitten three times by a pair of rattlesnakes, a member of a snake-handling religious group is under hospital care and doctors said he might lose his left arm.

"I've not got no fight against medicine," said 34-year-old Earl Adkins. "If you can't get hold of the power of God, medicine is a wonderful thing."

'Little Summit'

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon will hold little summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Moscow Sunday to discuss Berlin crisis, atomic tests, disarmament, trade and other East-West issues.

Canada's Answer:

Atomic Energy 'Doing Well'

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill stoutly defended Canada's atomic energy program Monday in the wake of criticism by an American official.

"We think we're doing pretty well in Canada," Mr. Churchill said.

LONG-RANGE PLAN

"Our atomic energy program is being worked out according to a plan devised several years ago and is coming to fruition very rapidly."

He was commenting on a Washington report quoting Dr. Willard Libby, former member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, as telling a joint congressional committee that Canada's program "is a pretty small effort."

'COULD BE BETTER'

"I think they could have done a better job," Dr. Libby testified.

Mr. Churchill said Dr. Libby is not known here and, as far as could be learned, never visited Canada in his capacity as an AEC member.

The American official had never toured the Canadian atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont.

"We always have enjoyed the friendliest relations with AEC officials in the United States," Mr. Churchill added.

Iraq Battle Still Raging

CAIRO (Reuters)—Fighting between pro-Communist and government forces still is raging in northern Iraq, reports reaching here said.

Communists were reported to have killed the deputy commander of the Iraqi army's second division and dragged his body through the streets of Kirkuk, centre of the nation's oil industry.

They were also reported to have stormed a suburban police station in Kirkuk, looting the armory.

It was also reported the Iraqi air force had bombed rebel positions in Kirkuk.

Food Gets Blame

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Pale and wan, but thoroughly relaxed and appearing healthy, Queen Elizabeth said goodbye Monday to the northland of which she saw so little.

As the Queen, forced because of an upset stomach to cancel many of her northern engagements, took off for Edmonton and another round of the royal tour of Canada she told Whitehorse Mayor George Cameron that she was sorry her visit had been disrupted.

"But I think I've got a wonderful rest out of it."

WHICH FOOD?

It was officially stated that the Queen's ailment, a severe stomach upset, was caused by food and aggravated by fatigue though, the royal doctor said, it was not known which food may have caused the trouble. "Something she ate" first was advanced Sunday morning as the prime cause of the Queen's illness. Then the official version swung to extreme tiredness and prevailing hot weather during recent days.

NO MESSAGES

Indicating that no anxiety about the Queen is held in London, press secretary Edmund Butler said late Monday that no official messages had been received by the Queen and no communications had been received from members of her family.

Mr. Butler said the Queen was up all of this morning. He said the food which had disagreed with her probably was eaten before arrival in Whitehorse Saturday afternoon.

DISAPPOINTED

The Queen was "keen" to resume the tour and naturally had been disappointed she had had to cancel engagements this weekend.

Mr. Butler said the Queen's doctor, Surgeon-Captain Derek D. Steele-Perkins, had judged that there had been some sort of bacteria in the food.

Aked whether medicine given the Queen was castor oil, Mr. Butler replied: "It was just the opposite."

RESPONDED WELL

Mr. Butler's report at mid-afternoon press conference continued:

"The Queen has no temperature and has responded well to treatment. She has taken some medicine and the symptoms have almost disappeared."

"The Queen came down for a light breakfast with the Duke of Edinburgh in the dining room at the guest house this morning and had a light lunch downstairs."

READS, RESTS

"The Queen has spent the morning reading and resting." The doctor states that there has been absolutely no recurrence of the sinusitis which the Queen had last year.

Mr. Butler then read a message from the Queen's private secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa:

"The Queen is now rested but in view of the heavy program today, Monday, Surgeon-Capt. Derek Steele-Perkins has advised direct flight to Edmonton."

The decision of the Queen to cancel her part of Monday's program — visits to Yellowknife and Uranium City, Sask. — was made reluctantly, at the last moment. Prince Philip took over the remainder of the northern schedule in her place.

APOLOGIES GIVEN

With him, he carried the Queen's apologies to the people who for months had looked forward to the royal visit with anticipation.

The 45-day tour of Canada has been hard on the Queen. Twelve days remain.

The Queen looked extremely tired on her arrival here Saturday and, it was learned later, went through the official welcoming formalities and subsequent official sightseeing visits while feeling not at all well.

Planes Circle Together

EDMONTON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip received a warm welcome to Edmonton Monday night, then were whisked away quickly to spend the night on the royal train parked on a secluded siding.

The Queen, looking well rested and showing no effects of her weekend illness that curtailed her tour of the northland, landed by plane from Whitehorse at 9.11 p.m. PDT.

CARRIED ON

Her husband, who had carried on with the scheduled program at Yellowknife, N.W.T., and Uranium City, Sask., had landed in the royal Viscount three minutes earlier.

For a few minutes before the landing the two aircraft had circled together over the city.

The two met in a huge RCAF hangar at Namao air base 10 miles north of Edmonton.

DRIZZLE FALLING

A drizzle was falling as the planes came in.

The Queen was smiling as she stepped out of the C-53 that brought her the 1,000 miles from Whitehorse in four hours.

She carried a black umbrella and wore a yellow raincoat and a yellow hat — described by a woman observer as a sailor straw — and brown shoes.

The official welcoming ceremonies in the big hangar took only 12 minutes. Then the royal couple stepped into a closed car and drove down the airfield to the royal train.

DECISION TODAY

There was no official word immediately as to whether the Queen's program for today—a five-hour visit in Edmonton and a train trip to Wainwright—would be changed. A decision on that point was expected in the morning.

A crowd of about 1,000—personnel of the base and their wives—was on to greet the Queen, who had been forced to curtail her northern tour because of an upset stomach.

In the group was the lieutenant-governor of Alberta, Dr. J. J. Bowlen, Premier E. C. Manning, Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton and other officials.

VANCOUVER — A lead which took an RCMP officer to Texas to interview a man about the brutal slaying of Bruce Worline has turned out "not so hot," police said Monday.

WASHINGTON — Opponents of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo charged Monday that the Dominican strongman has started to purge his close associates in a "new reign of terror."

Prince Consort Philip's Goal?

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (UPI) — Prince Philip is conducting a one-man public relations campaign as an almost certain preliminary to being named Prince Consort, observers believe.

There was no way of telling how soon Queen Elizabeth would ask the British Parliament to approve formally his boost from a "prince of the realm" to the nearest he can ever become to being King of England. But there has been growing speculation since the Queen and her husband started their 15,000-mile Canadian tour that the date is not far off.

Most of the speculation has sprung from Philip's actions during the tour and his relations with the press. Until a few months ago he maintained what amounted almost to a feud with newspapermen, and especially with photographers. He often lost his temper when he saw them around, and on several occasions his remarks to them were more expressive than polite.

But since the current Canadian tour started, a "new" Philip has emerged.

The prince, who not so long ago scowled at reporters and photographers doing their jobs now goes out of his way to be pleasant. He seems to reserve a special wave and grin for groups of correspondents he recognizes as he walks or rides past with the Queen.

A number of incidents have combined to give close observers the impression that the "new" Philip is grooming himself — or being groomed — for the new and bigger job as consort.

Someone around this house must marry. We need a little sprinkle of stardust and moonbeams. It has to be Rocky. He's young, attractive, and devil-may-care. At the age of two, a handsome black police dog should be ready to settle down.

Besides, he's becoming doxy. He dozes in the office, dark head on tawny paws. He gets up to sniff the food the housekeeper sets on the kitchen floor. Then he walks into the living room slowly, the long thick tail hanging near his ankles, and he emits a windy sigh and falls on his side. If someone rings the front bell, Rocky staggers to his feet, growls once, and collapses.

Bonner Points Out

B.C. Opportunity To Make Mowers

Trade Minister Robert Bonner said yesterday there is an opportunity in British Columbia for production or assembly of power mowers.

He said that in addition to sales of Canadian-produced power mowers, 7,257 machines valued at $446,335 were imported in 1958.

He said the upward trend in British Columbia's production and sales which began in the fall of 1958 has continued throughout this year.

"One of the most favorable and surprising aspects has been the high level of employment and correspondingly sharp drop in the number of people without jobs and seeking work," Mr. Bonner said.

Up to the time of the strike of the coast lumber industry, forestry has shown solid production and sales gains in practically every sector, he said.

Mining, with the slight improvement in copper, lead and zinc prices as well as active work in petroleum and natural gas field, is also in a better position than it was in 1958, he said.

The fishing industry has shown a greater landed value of fish for the first quarter of this year than at the same time last year.

He said the construction industry has been active with

Don't Tell Patient

Ignorance Is Bliss British Doctor Says

EDINBURGH (CP)—Don't always tell patients the truth, says a British doctor.

"Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise," applies to medical education," said Dr. Robert Asher, of London, in a paper prepared for a discussion of public health education.

He contended that it is wrong for the public to learn from any source about the new treatments. Dr. Asher was participating in an examination of health education in the first day of the week-long annual meeting of the Canadian and British Medical Associations.

The conference of 1,000 Canadian doctors and 2,000 of their British counterparts is the biggest in the history of the two groups.

Dr. C. M. Fletcher of London, another participant, disagreed with Dr. Asher. He said doctors could usefully tell the public about the formal functioning of the body and about the increasing ability of medical workers to cure disease.

Prince Philip quipped Monday in a recorded message to the doctors that he was in Canada "due to circumstances quite beyond my control."

Laziness Normal Surgeon Says

COLES PARK, England (UPI)—Sir Heneage Ogilvie, 72, one of Britain's most prominent surgeons, came out squarely in favor of laziness yesterday.

"Laziness implies a lot of intelligence," he said, "and it is the normal healthy attitude of a man with nothing to do. We should study its technique. Its great enemy is conscience—the fear of disapproval."

Congress Doctor's Dream

MONTREAL (CP)—Dr. Alan Ross says the ninth International Congress of Pediatrics is a child specialist's "dream," unique in the annals of such international scientific meetings.

Dr. Ross, congress president and physician-in-chief of the Montreal's Children's Hospital, said Monday the ninth congress represents "a change in attitude" in medicine.

"We used to talk about 'the whole child' and concentrate on treating his symptoms. Now we are trying to get at the basic cause of disease—the reason for the symptoms. We recall that it was basic research which found a vaccine against polio. Medicine has swung right back to basic science."

In this spirit, he said, the largest section of the congress will be devoted to nutrition. "Not to mass feeding but to research on dietary lacks we didn't even know existed and which we now suspect may be the root of some diseases."

Fire Victim Memorial Scheduled Today

Memorial services for Mrs. Edith Esson, 57, who died last month in a hotel fire while vacationing in Stalheim, Norway, will be held at 10 a.m. today at McCall Bros' funeral home.

A native of Qu'Appelle, Sask., Mrs. Esson had planned to retire to Victoria in three years.

A trained nurse, she was for many years director of nursing at Saskatoon City Hospital. During the Second World War she served briefly overseas with the No. 8 Hospital Unit.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. E. R. Wylie of Victoria, Mrs. Grover Whittingham of Qu'Appelle, and Mrs. R. R. Surgenon of Yorkton, Sask.; an uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Amas and cousin Percy of Victoria.

B.C. Would Inherit Headaches in Swap

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia would get immense future wealth but plenty of headaches if it succeeded in convincing the federal government to cede it part of the Northwest Territories.

Premier Bennett has proposed that B.C. be given that part of the territories that lie north of its present boundaries. In exchange, B.C. would undertake to maintain the 600-mile section of the Alaska Highway in B.C.

The highway now costs the federal government about $17,000,000 a year. It is maintained largely as a defence link from Dawson Creek, through the Yukon to Alaska.

NO FORMAL RESPONSE

Defence Minister Pearkes, to whom Mr. Bennett made his proposal, hasn't yet taken the matter up with the cabinet. There was no immediate indication here when such a swap might be discussed.

The proposed swap provoked no official comment here but government sources said B.C. would face enormous costs in such a plan.

Population is sparse in the territories and the distances between centres of population immense. The climate is another factor that increases the cost of maintaining transportation, communication, health, welfare and educational services.

PAYS THE BILLS

The federal government pays the biggest part of the bill for these services with a share being contributed by the Northwest Territories council. British Columbia would be faced with heavy expenditures in taking over even a part of the services.

The area is rich in power and oil resources but these are only on the eve of development. It would be many years before they would yield the B.C. government sufficient revenue to offset the cost of upkeep in the territories.

Canadian Scouts Heroes

MOUNT MAKILIN. The Philippines (AP)—The 91-member Canadian contingent to the 10th world Scout jamboree is looked on here as a band of heroes.

For their heroism, they have received a written commendation from Dr. Prudentio Langcaon, the camp director.

On Saturday, a truck delivering a tankful of water to camp lost its brakes, turned over on its right side against a hill and pinned two Filipino Boy Scouts.

The entire Canadian delegation rushed to the truck, lifted it and freed the two Filipinos.

Dr. Langcaon expressed thanks "for this superb Scoutly gesture, in the true spirit of service and camaraderie."

$17,200,000 From Ottawa

OTTAWA (UPI)—Newfoundland today will receive from Ottawa two cheques totalling $17,200,000, part of the federal government's financial settlement under the Confederation agreement. The cheques cover payments from 1957 to 1960.

In an accompanying letter, Finance Minister Fleming assured the province the government would take "any special circumstances" in consideration in 1962 when the annual payments to the province run out.

More Polio Cases Hit Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Two new cases of polio were reported by the health department Monday, bringing the 1959 total in Newfoundland to 16. One child has died. At least nine others are in iron lungs at the fever hospital here.

However, B.C. undoubtedly would seek some special federal aid on the basis that the part of the highway in its boundaries is a vital transportation link with Alaska where the United States maintains defence forces.

B.C. isn't the only province that covets territories north of its boundaries. From time to time there have been suggestions from other provinces that they be given some of the lands and resources there.

A deal with B.C. also would be a blow to those in the territories who see a day coming when some or all of the northern lands achieve provincial status. About a year ago Prime Minister Diefenbaker fanned those hopes in the Yukon by saying in a speech that he can visualize an 11th province in Confederation.

It Is No Wonder

UP in the Yukon the Queen was forced to cancel some of her engagements and spend Sunday in bed. It is no wonder. The pressure of public appearances and official receptions all across the country has been nothing short of terrific. There has been scant consideration for the royal guest involved. It is in fact amazing that Her Majesty has borne up so well in view of so much exhausting travel and official function.

Planning officials in every community are to blame. None of them could stand the pressure themselves yet they continue to stick to the same old pattern royal visit after royal visit. Each time an easement is promised so that the Queen can "meet the people" but each time local dignitaries hog the spotlight. Some of them are presented four or five times in a single day. The handshaking and the rapid succession of banquets, receptions, events—all piled into a continuous round—must create for Her Majesty a kaleidoscopic blur.

Probably it is not easy for the Queen to "meet the people," for the chances of doing this informally are practically nil. Even an informal call is hedged with officials and the usual split-second timing so that it becomes merely another event on the calendar. And as the Queen's indisposition—happily not serious—makes clear, the calendar is always too full.

Looking back on her Victoria visit it must be said that everything went off splendidly, but only because the Queen had the poise and courage to fend off the weariness that must have been involved. She gave immense pleasure to Victorians and her stay here was a joyful period. Nevertheless the program might well have been much less strenuous. The garden party was a great success and here the "meet the people" theme found expression. But that and a leisurely drive throughout the four municipalities actually would have been enough.

The trouble is that in every place visited by the Queen the demands by this group or that, this agency or the other, are permitted to accumulate to create an inordinate round of events. Everyone wants to get into the act. This is understandable enough but the end result can only be a cessation of visits of such overloaded nature.

It is quite likely another royal tour of the whole country will not take place, certainly not for a long time. Probably the Queen will fly out in periodic visits to certain towns and compact areas and these alone. The country will have to attune itself to a pattern of this kind. And in each area local officials will have to lessen their demands and expectations. No human being can keep up the pace to which Her Majesty has been subjected on her current tour.

Foolish Adventure

IN case other young people should be tempted to emulate them or perhaps try to go them one better, it should be said that the crossing of the Strait of Juan de Fuca by three girls in an eight-foot dinghy was a foolish stunt to say the very least. That it was unpremeditated and that they are not old enough to appreciate the extreme dangers which the strait keeps up its sleeve even in fine weather are only partial excuses. That they survived the crossing is due to good luck and nothing else.

A well-found boat operated by someone of experience may cross the strait in safety; in summer American and Canadian boatowners are doing it all the time. But that deceptively narrow and placid channel in clear weather can turn almost without warning into one of the meanest and dirtiest stretches of water on the Pacific Coast. On both sides and especially along the Port Angeles shore there are strong tidal currents and overfalls which a wind of only a few miles an hour may whip into an ugly turmoil. It is by no means uncommon for seaworthy, fully equipped boats, including heavy commercial vessels, to get into serious trouble there.

Even if conditions remain favorable, one false move in changing rowers in a dinghy as small as the one these girls used could have capsized the three of them into the water. To take on a trip like that at any time would be bad enough; to do it by moonlight was an invitation to disaster. The girls placed unwarranted faith in the presence of other shipping in the strait. In rough water abounding in drifting logs and flotsam a small boat is almost impossible to see beyond a range of a few hundred yards even in broad daylight; and at night if a ship did happen to be in the vicinity cries for help could not be heard above the wash of water and the noise of engines.

There have been many unorthodox voyages across the strait, but usually they have been made under escort and advance provision for rescue in emergency. The three girls were astonishingly fortunate to reach the other side unharmed, but that is the best that can be said of their spur-of-the-moment adventure.

Prorogation and Problems

THE second session of Canada's 24th Parliament wound up its business in the early hours of Sunday morning. Formal prorogation followed, releasing the cabinet and private members after 127 days of sittings. The session was marked by acrimony and heated debate, rather than material changes in the patterns and policies of governance in the nation. What things the administration did were done decisively, however, though solutions for major problems at this time were probably beyond the reach of any administration. The world itself is in a wait-and-see phase both internationally and economically.

Politically, the current session of the present Parliament leaves the Diefenbaker administration in a stronger position than before. Although very few changes were made in the cabinet, and still fewer by way of parliamentary assistants to the various ministries, the government has had this opportunity to test the weight of the divided opposition. Not much threat seems to have arisen from that source during months of the session now ended. That leaves Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his cabinet firmly in the saddle, with at least two more years of the term in which to develop the action of the administration. For the Progressive Conservatives the coming period may be the real test, in the light of changing conditions.

Interpreting the News

Soviet Pattern Unchanged

By JOSEPH MACSWEN

PREMIER KHRUSHCHEV'S current junket in Communist Poland may be designed to make the Poles happier about the trend of the Geneva conference of foreign ministers.

Western diplomats are convinced that the Poles—and the Czechs as well—are not exactly bubbling with glee at the importance being accorded East Germany by Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at the Geneva talks.

Khrushchev's visit at this time points up what is not always obvious: that Russia often has trouble—lulling the rivalries of its satellites and keeping them in line with Moscow diplomacy.

Diplomats stress that while there may be divisions among the Western allies at Geneva, where is also pulling and hauling among the Communist countries behind the scenes.

There have been hints of this since Russia quietly dropped its early proposal that Poland and Czechoslovakia be included in the Geneva talks to achieve representative parity with the Western powers and because of their particular interest in German affairs.

The interesting feature is that Russia dropped this idea without any great pressure from the West and instead has been boosting the cause of East Germany.

This has enhanced East Germany's prestige although some diplomats do not attach importance to Gromyko's bid for the East German delegation to be included in secret Geneva negotiations.

They see this as a diversionary move, adding that the Gromyko tactics are unchanged in the second act of the dull Geneva drama. He is still stalling for time in the hope of undermining Allied unity and determination.

Some interest has been aroused by Gromyko's reference to the United Nations when he was outlining his plan for an 18-month interim agreement on the Berlin question.

Gromyko is well aware of the dilemma of the Western foreign ministers, who need solid Russian guarantees that the West's rights in Berlin would be respected during the "truce" period.

"... of shoes and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings."

WELL, the captains and the queens have departed, as Kipling would say, and back we are again to old clothes and porridge, as the pundits have it.

It was a great show however, don't you think, while it lasted. The folks here did themselves proud; certainly they banished any notion of "indifference" about a royal visit. I glimpsed the Queen closely only once myself, as she passed the Roundabout the day she arrived. Some people saw her half-a-dozen times, rushing from place to place every day.

And of course the whole town seemed to be out on Friday night to see the perfect end of a perfect day. The naval illumination and fireworks were a splendid cap to everything. I saw the display from a friend's veranda at Clover Point—and what a setting!

Tell me where it can be beat. Etched for ever in many minds will be those moments when fire bursts enveloped ships, moon and shimmering sea, cars and people in jeweled iridescence.

They made me think again, too, how lucky we are to have the navy to add to all our spectacular public occasions. All three services in fact are a boon to this area, and each pictured in well during the royal visit.

Can't you imagine how drab life would be without them? Incidentally, talking about the services, a friend asked me at the color ceremony why no flag flew from the Beacon Hill flagpole. He was indignant, and I felt that way myself.

If you also wondered don't blame the city parks department. It got military advice that no flag can fly higher than the Royal Standard—which was raised at the dias when the Queen arrived at the PPCLI parade.

I am no heraldic or protocol expert but this doesn't seem satisfying. To begin with the Beacon Hill staff, while adjacent to the color ceremony field, was not a part of that show. It merely happened to be near it. It is a permanent fixture. I doubt that when the color is trooped at the Horse Guards Parade someone goes around pulling down all the high Union Jacks in the vicinity.

Anyway the Beacon Hill pole, the chief civic flagstaff, looked strangely forlorn, almost as though it were alighting the Queen. They might have run up the Royal Standard on it to avoid any anomaly, just as in 1939 when the navy had a royal color ceremony on the same field.

Some folks around me at this superb military spectacle regretted the Queen couldn't circle the edge of the field in her jeep to let everyone have a close look at her. I suppose such a departure from military etiquette just isn't done at such an affair, but it was a pity. Formality so often puts a spoke in the human wheel.

However, Victorians can't say they didn't have a good chance to see the Queen. She was on display often enough to prostrate anyone less well endowed with mental and physical resilience.

Only they'll kill this young lady if they don't ease the pressure on her. We were the beneficiaries, however. Her visit lifted us out of the rut, excited, amused and entertained us. Now it's back to mundane things.

Reports From Ottawa

HISTORIANS report that Sir John A. used to complain that the most difficult of all trades is that of the cabinet maker. His titular legatee, John G., might well agree.

Only the other day the prime minister was pressed on the matter of appointing a new minister of public works to succeed Howard Green, who is now external affairs minister. "Can we," asked Liberal Jack Pickersgill, "expect the announcement before the end of the session?"

"I seem to remember," the PM replied, "that the same type of question was asked in 1941 and 1942 when, for a period of many months, no representative was appointed from the province of Quebec. We used to ask questions in that regard and the answer we received was that an announcement would be made in due course."

In marshalling material to support his case, old courtroom lawyer Diefenbaker has a habit of taking little liberties with the facts. A check of the Commons records for that period shows it was not the Conservatives who were pressing Mackenzie King to appoint French Canadians to the cabinet. That is the last thing the Tories would have done in those days of the conscription plebiscite. The man who needed King was Ligouri Lacombe, a fiery Quebec nationalist who sat as an independent MP.

Lacombe was a Duplessis man; eventually was rewarded by Duplessis with a judgeship. But perhaps it is not strange for the distinction between Lacombe and the Conservatives of that day to have faded from Diefenbaker's mind. Today Diefenbaker has four French-Canadians in his cabinet, and all are in Parliament by courtesy of Premier Duplessis. Moreover, Diefenbaker is committed by a 1958 election promise to appoint a fifth French-Canadian cabinet minister, to represent the lower St. Lawrence region. Implementation of that promise means the addition of another man to the cabinet who is indebted to the Union Nationale political machine for his election to Parliament.

There is considerable difference between indebtedness to the national Conservative Party organization, and to the organization of a provincial premier who in many ways bucks the current of Canadian development and progress. There is always the suspicion that the latter indebtedness compromises the debtor.

Diefenbaker's cabinet problem is to take on a French Canadian minister, but not in public works.

This presents some difficulties. Public works has long been considered a traditionally French-Canadian portfolio. Moreover, Quebec does not have any important cabinet posts. This rangles with Quebec.

Public works is now a top echelon job. It has become so under two English-Canadian ministers who were not content to be custodians of the political pork barrel and dispensers of party patronage. Howard Green made "no patronage" his guiding principle, to the anguish of many Tory MPs, and leaves the ministry with a determination that so far as he can influence events, public works will not revert to being a pork barrel.

The obvious answer is for Diefenbaker to appoint an English-Canadian of ability and integrity—some worthy successor to Green and his Liberal predecessor, Robert H. Winters. But that will not satisfy Quebec, where the Gallup poll reports Tory popularity slipping, unless there is some satisfactory quid pro quo.

It will be interesting to see how the PM handles this one.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

IT was lately announced that last year 37,000 people were killed in traffic accidents in America. This is a figure hard to believe, and maybe some safety evangelist has exaggerated it. But if it is true or anywhere near true, it gives us at last the right to refer to the Traffic War.

In the Second World War Canada lost 38,000 men, and in the first, 58,000. The casualties in those wars amounted to millions, of course, in the larger European countries, over the four and five-year periods.

But only war can rob us of lives in their prime in figures such as these. The various diseases run up staggering totals. But they, you might say, are more or less beyond human control.

Is war beyond human control? Is the Traffic War beyond human control?

Traffic war is a good name for it. What is the conflict of countless thousands of cars on our highways and city streets but a small war of competing, aggressive and often hostile individuals? For one driver who wants nothing more than to convey himself at his usual pace to his usual destination there are two or five or ten drivers who have no other desire than to get there first, regardless of where "there" is. They are warmongers of the Traffic War.

Perhaps we ought not to dignify it with the name of war. No cenotaphs are built, no plaques are hung in honor of the fallen in an annual battle that in a few years' time will soon run up a total far exceeding that of all the battles since Julius Caesar.

Keys of the City

(From The New York Times)

WHEN the ritual and symbolism are stripped away Elizabeth and Philip are delegates of the British people—and, by a constitutional fiction, of all the peoples of the Commonwealth of Nations. The Queen speaks for Australia as she does for England.

She speaks, in these days, for average persons, since the principle of royal selection permits nothing else. Our hospitality is a neighborly greeting to many millions of our friends.

In this sense Chicago stood for all America when it offered the keys of the city to these visitors who celebrated with us the opening of a great new waterway that will bring benefits to Canada as well as ourselves.

Powerful forces in Vermont, including a faction in his own party, are determined to defeat Meyer next year. His Republican opponent is likely to be the present governor, Robert T. Stafford, who won by a squeak of 700 votes in November. But win, lose or draw this nonconformist will follow the dictates of his own conscience.

Washington Angle

Rebel in The House

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IN its farthest reaches the tide of Democratic victory last November swept Edmund Muskie into the Senate from Maine and for the first time a Democrat was elected to Congress on a state-wide basis from Vermont. That Democrat was Representative William H. Meyer, who in the aftermath of the landslide last fall was for a brief time national news.

Not only had he won as Congressman-at-large by a majority of 4,000 out of 123,000 votes cast, but during his campaign he had expressed some very unorthodox views. He had said on television that he believed Communist China should be a member of the United Nations and that eventually the United States should recognize the Peiping government. He proposed abolition of the draft and stopping the manufacture of hydrogen and atomic bombs as well as nuclear testing.

In the House Meyer has followed these same unorthodox lines. He is the lonely representative of an American tradition, and particularly a New England tradition, that goes a long way back—protest, nonconformity, the right of the individual and his conscience over that of all collective and corporate rights, including the state. It is in the tradition of Thoreau, who went to jail for his belief in the abolition of slavery.

The other day Representative Meyer came into the national news again when his younger son, Karl, was arrested and sentenced to six months in a federal jail for a pacifist demonstration against an Omaha, Nebraska, missile base site. Karl had previously been arrested three times in New York for protesting New York State's compulsory civil defence law.

Representative Meyer talks about this in the same calm, untroubled voice with which he discusses his convictions. He says that he is not himself a pacifist, although he registered as a conscientious objector when the draft was initiated just prior to the Second World War. Karl believes in direct action while his father thinks he can be more effective in putting over his own ideas through legislation and public opinion.

Of German origin, the Meyer family came to this country after fleeing from the Rhineland in 1848, the year of the abortive European revolt against kings and military dictators. With a deeply religious strain in the family, Representative Meyer says he had thought that Karl, because of his strong pacifist views, would be a Quaker. Instead, two years ago he became a Roman Catholic convert and worked in New York's slums with the Catholic worker movement headed by Dorothy Day.

When the draft was up for renewal earlier this year Meyer opposed it on the floor of the House. He admits that at times he is overcome by something like despair as he confronts what he fears is an inevitable drift toward nuclear war. This feeling is especially strong after he has listened to witnesses before the House foreign affairs committee, of which he is a member, who imply that a preventive war can somehow save America.

In normally Republican Vermont, Meyer's stand—even though his views were fairly well aired during last year's campaign—has set off loud repercussions. The American Legion has denounced him and newspaper editors almost without exception have inveighed against him. He went up and spoke to the Republican legislature in Vermont and, after he had explained what he had done for the state, he defended his position on peace and war thus:

"I tried to illustrate that military leaders are gaining economic control in the United States and spending most of our taxes with no real supervision by Congress. . . . The situation must be corrected if our form of government is to survive. This must indeed be a crazy age if I am called subversive because I speak the truth and try to uphold our constitutional form of government and provide for the defence of my country as I am obligated to do as a congressman elected by the people and sworn into office under oath."

Other men like Meyer have in the past served in the Congress, but they have come mostly from the West, with isolationist leanings. He is not an isolationist, believing that American troops must remain in Europe until a solid agreement on withdrawal of armed forces from each side of the East-West divide can be reached with Russia.

Powerful forces in Vermont, including a faction in his own party, are determined to defeat Meyer next year. His Republican opponent is likely to be the present governor, Robert T. Stafford, who won by a squeak of 700 votes in November. But win, lose or draw this nonconformist will follow the dictates of his own conscience.

Letters to the Editor

For Better Fishing

On June 26 there was a most interesting article in the Colonist about a gift from B.C. to the Greeks of $500 worth of Rainbow Trout spawn. I should like to know if I am alone in wondering why the Cowichan River has not been restocked with Rainbow Trout? This river was formerly world famous for its trout fishing; is now but a bed of happy memories.

On Saturday the Colonist had a report on New Zealand fishing which made one's mouth water. An abbreviated report on Lake Taupo stated 1,000,000 pounds of trout were caught by anglers last season, averaging four pounds apiece, and that the lake side areas are freely open to anyone who buys a licence.

Now may I ask why has the New Zealand fishing remained at so high a standard for so many years? Their ratio of conservation and enforcement would be most interesting.

SPCA Won't Back Attack on Falcons

Tom Hughes, executive director of the SPCA in British Columbia, said Sunday the society dissociates itself from a statement criticizing B.C.'s gift of a pair of falcons to Prince Philip last week.

The statement from an SPCA official in Victoria said that "our royal visitors have been ill-served" by the gift.

Mr. Hughes said the statement "is not representative of the society or its 10,000 members."

Passage Island Sold

Marine Park Out, 'Too Hazardous'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Rock-bound Passage Island has been rejected as a provincial marine park site and now belongs to a young Vancouver businessman.

The 32-acre island at the entrance to Howe Sound was sold by executors for the will of the late Mary Isabella Keith, whose family owned it for 60 years.

Earle Westwood, minister of recreation and conservation, turned it down as "too hazardous" for a provincial recreation area. A spokesman for the executors said somebody who wishes to remain anonymous bought it July 16 for between $7,000 and $10,000.

Only 12 private individuals submitted bids for the tree-dotted piece of land, said executor E. M. C. McLorg. The lowest offer was $100.

Atlantic Premiers Plan Conference

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI)—Premier Hugh Fleming announced Monday that a conference of Atlantic premiers will be held here Sept. 15.

Summit meeting is desirable, Prime Minister Diefenbaker told a Montreal audience yesterday, but there should be no misunderstanding that such a meeting would automatically produce a "speedy" settlement of current tensions. Later, in Granby, Que., he said there were indications all-time records will be set this year in Canada's recovery from the economic recession.

Rival European Common Markets

Bigger Threat Than Russia

GENEVA (AP)—A spectre of economic war in Western Europe that could split the Atlantic alliance is haunting some leading statesmen at the foreign minister conference. In a way, an all-out trade battle would pose greater dangers to the Western allies than anything Premier Khrushchev may do.

The trouble centres around two economic groupings, led by France and Britain. Already their rivalry has jolted the entente cordiale—that special British-French relationship which has been an anchor in 20th-century diplomacy in Europe.

France heads the common market group of the "inner six" nations. Other members are West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg. Britain, at a high-level meeting in Stockholm, is lining up a group of seven countries into a little free trade area. The "outer seven" are Britain, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Austria, Portugal, Switzerland.

Currency Devalued, Spain Granted Aid

MADRID (AP)—Generalissimo Franco's government has cut the official value of the peseta almost by half as the first step in a vast program designed to pull the Spanish economy out of the doldrums.

British leaders think a merger could herald a new era of prosperity, with West Europe developing as a single trading unit able to match the mass production and marketing methods of the American and Soviet giants. This would be done by tearing down tariffs, and in time would spell lower production costs and higher living standards.

Tripucka Sticks Out

OTTAWA (UPI)—Veteran quarterback Frank Tripucka made an impressive debut in an Ottawa uniform last night, guiding the favored Whites to a narrow 14-13 win over the Reds in the annual Roughriders inter-squad game.

Some 8,500 fans saw Tripucka, acquired in a five-for-one deal with Saskatchewan earlier this year, complete 15 of 22 pass attempts and direct the strong-running attack to edge a surprisingly strong "second string" Red club.

King Fisherman

Youngster Crest Candidate After Hooking Big Spring

One of the happiest anglers on Vancouver Island Sunday was 11-year-old Gary Charlton, who put himself in a good position to win a spring salmon crest for July in the Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest.

Gary, 2726 Roseberry, caught a 29½-pound spring Sunday at Weir's Beach. He needed help from his father Ray to land the fish, which was caught on a Strip-Teaser, but got it in to boast the biggest single catch of a good day at Weir's. Anglers competing in Sunday's Solarium Derby at Saanich Inlet found the fishing good and helped swell the entry list in the Daily Colonist contest. Hall's Boathouse reports that the fishing at the Goldstream end of the inlet has been good for the past week.

Derby Day Big Success

There are 8,300 reasons—all of them dollars—why Sunday's 14th annual Solarium fishing derby in Saanich Inlet must go into the books as a success.

That's the amount raised in the one-day derby by the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association. It is money that will go toward making life easier for the crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium. Tentative plan is to use the funds to construct a ramp allowing wheelchair patients to get to the beach.

BIG WINNER

Big winner as far as the anglers were concerned was Jim Smith, who celebrated his 45th birthday by landing a 30-pound, 14-ounce spring salmon. The fish, caught on a Strip-Teaser, won him a 12-horsepower outboard motor.

Another Smith claimed the Jacob's Bakery Trophy as the top junior angler of the day. Twelve-year-old Ron, no relation to Jim, caught a nine-pounder to win a transistor radio.

CAR WINNER

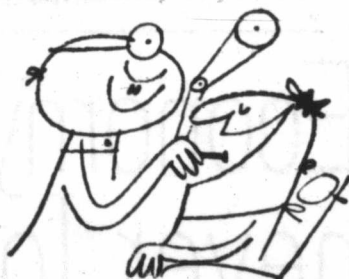

Best of the women in the competition was Mrs. Irene Jaundrew, who won a camera and the Page's Trophy with a 10.4 spring. Winner of the derby draw, and a 1959 automobile, was George Wood, 238 Douglas.

Failure to observe the derby time limit resulted in disqualification for several boats. Then there was the case of Bob Jones and Bob Redgrave, who caught six fish in Cole Bay, four between 14 and 19 pounds, but got their lines tangled with another boat and failed to reach Anchorage Boathouse before the final gun.

small-car handling ease... good steering, even with heavy loads... and wide, clear vision through its big windshield.

Ease of access to the load is also important to Vachon. "Our drivers have to be able to get at the cakes and pastries we carry quickly and easily. They find the Thames easy to work," says Mr. Fockler. With the engine up front, out of the way... with big floor-to-roof rear doors, and an optional side door... the Thames 800 is the most accessible van in the imported field.

Loadspace is also big, 170 cubic feet, as well as easy to get at. And payload capacity is 1,935 lbs.—tops in its class. Thames 800 owners everywhere agree with Mr. Fockler's happy pun: "Which ever way you look at it, this is the truck that takes the cake!" Try it soon on your own job, or try a smaller Thames—just call your British Ford Line dealer for a demonstration.

Mr. Clair Fockler, Manager,
Vachon Cakes Limited,
Scarborough, Ontario, reports:

"Toronto to Orillia and back—that's mostly highway driving. And we've got to move fast; fresh deliveries are essential to our business. Our other imported vans simply couldn't take it, but this Thames 800 does it every day!"

Mr. Fockler has also found that lively performance is not achieved at the expense of economy. With its modern, short-stroke engine, the Thames 800 is 69% more powerful than Vachon's other imported vans—so it makes time without over-working and keeps maintenance costs low. Gas bills are lower, too, with their Thames averaging a full 25 miles per gallon.

"Our drivers are really pleased with the Thames," Mr. Fockler continues. "They can maintain highway speeds and still enjoy a comfortable ride and easy handling." The Thames 800's fine engineering and compact dimensions provide

$100,000 for Chalet

Construction of a $100,000 replacement of the Malahat Chalet, which burned to the ground last summer, will commence early in August.

William N. Doersam, former owner of a Gorge Road drive-in cafe and now, with his wife, owner of Malahat Chalet Ltd., announced yesterday the new chalet will be completed about Nov. 1 at the site 17 miles northwest of Victoria.

He said a contract will be let to Farmer Construction Co. Ltd. of Victoria for its construction.

The new installation will offer an unsurpassed view of Finlayson Arm and Saanich from a 70-seat licensed dining room, embodying one wall of glass.

In addition to a new main chalet with dining room, snack bar, owner's suite and six second-storey suites, the project calls for construction of a new service station which will be

Hearings Set For Second TV Outlets

OTTAWA (CP)—The Board of Broadcast Governors announced Monday it will open hearings in about four months on applications for second television outlets in Canadian cities.

Earlier Monday it was learned that there are would-be competitors for CBC television stations in all six Canadian cities where the publicly-owned corporation has a TV monopoly.

Zane Grey's Son In TV Series

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Loren Grey, son of novelist Zane Grey, took home a cheque for $22,500 recently—his pay for a day's work in Dick Powell's "Zane Grey Theatre" TV series.

Grey didn't need the money for his bit part of a cowpoke—the novelist left a multi-million-dollar estate to his three children—but he admitted it paid better than his job as educational psychology instructor at San Fernando Valley State College.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Two separate fires ripped through downtown buildings here Sunday, causing an estimated $180,000 damage.

Gutted in the flames were a grocery store, a general store, and a boarding house. An electricity building and a service station also suffered damage.

The first fire broke out when a refrigerator motor exploded at a chain grocery store on Judicial Black Eye?

LONDON — German-born Guenther Podola, 30, was led into a court here yesterday, his eye badly blackened, to be charged with the murder of London detective Ray Purdy while a political uproar developed in the House of Commons about how the eye got that way.

Laborite opposition questions pointed to the belief that Podola had been beaten unconscious after he was picked up.

Names In the News

In the wake of a nationwide hunt for the killer.

Home Secretary R. A. Butler insisted "I am absolutely satisfied that this man was not beaten up in a police station."

LONDON — Mardie Amies, couturier to the Queen, celebrated his 50th birthday in complete silence. A secretary explained: "Mr. Amies said he is so depressed about being 50 he simply cannot speak about it."

LONDON — Premier Khrushchev has cancelled his planned tour of Scandinavia next month because of criticism the visits have aroused in the various Scandinavian countries.

KITIMAT — Constable Carl Lauritsen, 20, was found shot in the arm early Sunday after he answered a call to a garage where a prowler had been spotted.

Working Man's Party Urged In Newfoundland

CORNER BROOK, Nfld. (CP)—A Canadian Labor Congress official called on the Newfoundland Federation of Labor Monday to form a new political party "to protect the social rights of Newfoundland's working force."

Mr. Frank Chafe, the CLC's eastern representative, challenged the N.F.L. to break its ties with the provincial government and embark immediately on a program of political action.

Mr. Chafe's reference was to legislation that decertified two Newfoundland locals of the International Woodworkers of America (I.W.A.). One of the locals was on strike at the time against the Anglo-Newfoundland Development Company of Grand Falls.

NFL President Larry Daley, in a fiery keynote address at the group's 23rd annual convention, said Newfoundland Premier Smallwood had signed his own death warrant with his recent labor legislation.

"He has bitten off more than he can chew."

NEEDHAM, Mass. — Augustus Ricciardelli, 66, father of a former air force major, Libero Ricciardelli, 42, who reportedly moved to Russia, says he will make no effort to interfere with his son. "He's got a lot of crazy ideas," he said.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty acids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty acids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... unblocks it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills emulsify formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat.

Strike Emphasizes Danger from Fire

Forest service officials are alarmed that the IWA strike of coast loggers has removed experienced fire-fighters from the parched woods.

Special agreements with the IWA make provision for small standby fire warden crews to remain on duty at every logging operation, but in the event of forest fires the B.C. forest service will have to pay the full cost of fighting fires where an operation is closed down.

If the existing high forest hazard continues in the Vancouver forest district it could mean the addition of hundreds of thousands of dollars of forest fire fighting costs to provincial taxpayers.

Responsible

If the forest industries were operating the individual companies would be responsible for fighting fires in their own forest areas.

Many striking loggers have left the vicinity of the woods and if a forest fire breaks out the forest service may have to conscript inexperienced fire-fighters instead of the loggers who are trained to fight fires in the woods.

Officials said the fire hazard on Vancouver Island was rated as high yesterday, but there had been a slight moisture recovery overnight.

No Closure

There are no immediate plans for a forest closure, but if a closure becomes necessary a new plan dividing the Vancouver forest district into 10 closure areas will be placed into operation. Vancouver Island has been divided into four closure areas.

Effect will be that instead of ordering a blanket closure of a forest district only certain areas will be required to be closed as the fire hazard warrants.

Twelve new forest fires were reported over the weekend in the Vancouver forest district which includes Vancouver Island.

70 Acres

Reported now under control was the 70-acre fire at the 2,000-foot level on Mount Brenton which started Friday and has burned 250,000 feet of felled and bucked timber. Some 75 firefighters, three tractors, two tank trucks and two aerial water bombers are on duty there.

On Saturday a fire started on seven acres in the Meade Creek area near Cowichan Lake and is now being held by 64 forest service firefighters, five company men, two tractors and three tankers.

Three spot fires started in the Ganges area over the weekend and forest service officials blamed smokers and campers. All are now out. Two spot fires in the Nanaimo area were extinguished.

Water Bombs

The forest service now has six water tank-equipped Beaver aircraft patrolling B.C. forests and other local aircraft are available when required and have been equipped with water bombing equipment.

Fire patrols will be stepped up if the conditions necessitate. Water bombing aircraft were used in forest fire fighting last year. This year their use is being intensified and they will be used mainly to spot lightning strikes and then bomb them with water, slowing down the fire until firefighting crews can reach the area overland.

Forest service officials estimate that 60 per cent of fires started by lightning could be controlled by the use of aerial water bombers.

Navy, RCAF Sub-Hunters To Join U.S. Exercise

Navy ships from Esquimalt and sub-tracking aircraft from Comox will join USN forces in anti-submarine exercises in the Pacific from Aug. 10 to 14. Commander of the Canadian surface and air forces will be Rear Admiral H. S. Rayner, Canadian Maritime Command Pacific.

Capt. J. C. Pratt will command the destroyer escorts Margaree, Fraser, Skeena and Ottawa. The RCAF maritime squadron is under command of Wing Cmdr. J. C. McCarthy. Ten U.S. warships headed by the carrier USS Yorktown will participate in the exercises along with five squadrons of USN planes. The exercises off the west coast of the U.S. are designed to train joint U.S.-Canadian sub-hunting forces.

Seven Races Here

Philip's Yacht Easy to View

Victoria sailing enthusiasts will have ample opportunity to see Prince Philip's yacht Bluebottle in action in Royal Victoria Yacht Club races next month.

Skipped by her English captain, Lieut.-Cmdr. Coles, the Prince's sailing master, and with a crew drawn from local yachtsmen, the 29-foot Dragon-class sloop will take part in seven races in Cadboro Bay.

First race will be Aug. 26, followed by two races Aug. 29, three the next day and a final race Sept. 2.

The 4.9-mile course has been laid out from Cadboro Bay to a point off Willows Beach near Mary Tod Island to give spectators every chance to see the Bluebottle in competition. Each race will be twice around the course, weather permitting.

Over Labor Day weekend, probably on both Sept. 5 and 6, Bluebottle will be racing at Maple Bay.

Peter Young, RVYC fleet captain, said yesterday four Dragons from the local club, and possibly three from Vancouver and one or two more from Seattle, will compete with Bluebottle.

The royal sloop is on a coast-to-coast goodwill tour in Canada.

On Saturday, Leonard Bruce Kalk, 22, of 2537 Prior, died when a sports car he was driving crashed into a pole while he was returning from All Sooke Day.

Bystanders said he came to the surface floating face down. Willoughby's wife Ruth and a friend, William Sim, 2644 Cedar Hill Road, grabbed a rowboat and pulled him aboard.

They began artificial respiration and when Sidney volunteer fire department arrived, firemen worked on Willoughby with oral respiration, the first time the department had used the new method.

Willoughby's color improved but firemen couldn't get his heart to start beating. Dr. C. H. Hemming ordered him taken to Rest Haven Hospital, where he cut open the diver's chest to massage the heart.

There was no response. An inquest will probably be held at 10 a.m. today at McCall's funeral home. Funeral services are tentatively set for 1.15 p.m. Thursday at McCall's.

Smoke caused a scare at 1262 Rockland yesterday but city firemen found the source to be paper burning in a waste container.

"All burning will be prohibited with the exception of approved drum-type incinerators with cover screens, and a permit is needed for them," he said. Permits have to be obtained at the firehall.

Langford Fire Chief Rod Bayles said burning permits had been stopped a few days ago except for incinerators and issued a warning that all incinerators should be kept away from long grass. He cautioned that anyone using an incinerator without a proper screened cover is liable for prosecution.

In Oak Bay open rubbish permits have been limited to three days instead of the usual three weeks, but season-long incinerator permits are still available.

Rubbish burning permits are still being issued in Victoria, but must be obtained in person at any Victoria firehall.

'People Getting Resentful'

Buses 'Take Over' Downtown

Ald. Elmer McEwen, irked by the number and length of downtown bus stops, took issue yesterday with the city "providing the B.C. Electric with a bus depot on the street."

He said the company should be asked to find an off-street depot of its own.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood disagreed, holding that the long bus stops at transfer points were a desirable service to the public.

"It's unnecessary that they take over the whole downtown area," said Ald. McEwen. "The people are getting to resent it very much."

"We would be subject to an awful lot of criticism if we cut out bus stops," countered Ald. Edgewood.

The debate arose from a proposal that a rush-hour parking restriction at the end of the bus zone on the east side of Douglas between Yates and Johnson be extended through the evenings and on Sundays, to allow five buses to use the zone simultaneously.

Unable to agree, the two-man public works committee sent the proposal on to city council for a decision.

Skindiver Electrocuted

A well-known Victoria stock car driver and skindiver was one of 11 British Columbians killed in accidents over the weekend.

Dick Willoughby, 27, of 1837 Crescent, was killed Sunday in a freak accident at Shoal Harbor Marine near Sidney when, after diving for a lost gasoline funnel, he grabbed a conduit as he pulled himself back on the dock.

Matilda Rush, two, of Alberni, was drowned when she fell into Alberni Inlet. She died in the same location where her mother drowned 13 months ago.

On Saturday, Leonard Bruce Kalk, 22, of 2537 Prior, died when a sports car he was driving crashed into a pole while he was returning from All Sooke Day.

Bystanders said he came to the surface floating face down. Willoughby's wife Ruth and a friend, William Sim, 2644 Cedar Hill Road, grabbed a rowboat and pulled him aboard.

Rezoning Hearing Approved

Pat Bay Highway Another Kingsway?

Dire predictions that the Patricia Bay Highway could become "another Kingsway" failed to deter Saanich council last night from approving a petition for the rezoning of property for a $500,000 shopping centre.

The prediction came from Saanich community planner Tony Parr after council side-stepped a town planning commission recommendation to reject an application on behalf of Kelly Douglas Ltd. to rezone land in the vicinity of the Island Highway and Douglas.

Vancouver's Kingsway is a favorite example among town planners of unsatisfactory "ribbon development."

Reeve George Chatterton said he believed construction of the Kelly Douglas proposal on the west side of Douglas (the approach to the Patricia Bay Highway) might deter Dominion Construction Ltd. from a similar but far larger proposed development on the east side and only a short distance away.

He added, however, that Saanich must aim to obtain "the greatest amount of commercially taxable property possible."

Coun. Joseph Casey warned: "If somebody is willing to spend $500,000 we should take a long, long look."

Coun. Stanley Murphy said the recommendation of the planning commission "should not be taken too lightly."

He voted against the move to hold an early hearing on the application.

Town planners recommended rejection because, they claimed, the six-acre site chosen by Kelly Douglas is too small and can't be expanded, has major access only from Douglas Street, is too close to a second proposed shopping centre, site where Saanich municipal yards are now located, will bring about highway congestion and precipitate traffic accidents.

Date of the hearing has not yet been set.

Dental Decay Study Planned On 150 Tots

Two groups of 150 pupils entering Grade 1 at Greater Victoria schools this September will take part in a research study on prevention of dental cavities.

Teeth of one group only will receive a single application of 8 per cent stannous fluoride. All the children will be examined at the end of a year to compare the increase in numbers of cavities.

"This project has nothing to do with the controversial matter of fluoridation of the local supply of drinking water," said trustee W. C. Thomson, chairman of the school board's education committee.

PARENTS' CONSENT

He added that children taking part in the study "will do so only with consent of their parents."

The study is proposed by the division of the preventive dentistry of the provincial health branch. The province will pay all costs.

DIFFERENT SCHOOLS

Children who live on the same street but are forced to attend different schools got a break.

Trustees decided that in future where streets form the dividing line between school attendance areas children will be permitted to attend either school.

But, they added, having chosen one, students must stick with it.

J. D. Lorimer was appointed vice-principal of Victoria High School. He taught there before his appointment as vice-principal of Lansdowne Junior High School three years ago. Also announced was the appointment of John Crowther as vice-principal of Monterey Elementary School. He was formerly on staff of Monterey and has taught at Colquitz Junior High School for three years.

Ferry Bid Studied

Attorney-General Robert Bonner has informed Oak Bay council its fall and winter ferry service proposal will be given consideration.

Oak Bay asked the provincial government, through Mr. Bonner as minister of industrial development, trade and commerce, to ask the CPR or Black Ball to provide ferry service from Sidney to the mainland after the CPR halts its Vancouver-Victoria run in September and until the new provincial ferry service begins in the spring.

At the same time, Oak Bay asked other Greater Victoria municipalities to support the request to the government.

Esquimalt council last night endorsed that portion of the request which would seek continuance of CPR service until the government ferries are running next year.

Saanich council also gave unanimous approval to the Oak Bay proposal.

Blood Donors Rush Clinic

A rush of blood donors last night helped to make up for a poor afternoon. Red Cross officials reported last night as the current blood clinic ended the first day with a total of 191 pints.

Clinic official Mrs. Ralph Thistle said last night, "I hope we have a real rush again Tuesday. We have the staff and the equipment, all we need are the bodies."

The clinic will open again today in Red Cross House on Fort Street from 1.30 to 4.30 p.m., and 7 until 9.30 p.m.

Saanich Council Asked

Why High Taxes On Hilltop Home?

If having a house on a hill "is so bad, why are the taxes so high?"

Miss Vivienne B. Fall, 1209 Duke, posed that one to Saanich council last night, but failed to elicit an answer.

"Your attitude," she told council, "seems to be that it is sinful to live on top of a hill."

Miss Fall appeared before council to report that her home is without water from 5.30 to 10.30 p.m. each day during the summer.

She said she was not satisfied with Reeve Chatterton's recent refusal to enforce sprinkling restrictions in Saanich to relieve the situation.

Reeve Chatterton said her problem was the result of her house being situated on top of a hill.

Miss Fall's home is situated some distance above adjacent water mains and gets as little as 15 pounds of water pressure during early afternoon—and none in the evening.

She said that when she gets home from work she is afraid to light the oil stove to cook on because absence of water pressure creates the possibility of an explosion in the stove's water jacket.

"Life is utterly miserable" without water, she said.

She told council that in the 10 years she had lived in the home her taxes had risen from $37 to $186 per year.

Absence of water not only precludes the usual household cleanliness, she added, but creates a fire hazard.

Earlier she said that when Coun. Casey was reeve of Saanich she got greater cooperation when water pressure fell, but Coun. Casey said later that he "probably originated the remark that we shouldn't restrict 11,000 people for 10 people."

DET. DAVE DONALDSON ... after 28 years

But Only for Fun

'I'd Sure Like to Blow a Safe'

95 Per Cent of People Honest, He Believes

By JACK FRY

A fingerprint expert, detective David Donaldson, about to retire after 28 years on the city police force, says that "just for fun" he would like to blow open a safe.

The Victoria-born sleuth who will retire July 31 has spent the past 22 years in the one-man fingerprint department of the downtown detective office.

He has lifted prints from hundreds of safes opened here through nearly a quarter century and can tell at a glance the work of an expert or an amateur.

He knows all the tricks of the trade, from the "small time operators" who try to chop their way into the steel boxes, to the "No. 1 Criminals" who blow them open with detonators or knock off the dials and jimmy the inner mechanisms until they handle turns.

"I'd like to try blowing one just for the fun," said the 60-year-old lawman in a tone that suggested he wouldn't be expecting any easy money inside.

Mr. Donaldson said he has seen Victoria grow in size and its crimes increased proportionately, but it is cut off from the mainland and will never get as bad as Vancouver is now.

"You used to go downtown and know every other person on the street; now you don't know one in a thousand. But, we're still very fortunate here."

"Vancouver has grown more rapidly and is the end of the line for railroads and highways and it has a higher rate of crime."

Mr. Donaldson, a veteran of the First World War, joined the police force as a constable in January, 1931. Dressed like an English bobby, with a high "chocker" collar and bobby helmet and carrying a wooden baton, he pounded a beat along with such other well-known policemen as Chief Constable John Blackstock, deputy chief Harry Mercer, Insp. John Howe and Sgt. Alec Nicol.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: I'm deeply hurt because my 15-year-old daughter never discusses her problems with me. She goes next door to an unmarried woman and tells her everything and asks for advice.

Isn't it disrespectful (if not insulting) to take her troubles out of the house as if she had no mother? Every now and then the neighbor will say "Sue and I had the nicest chat..." This burns me up.

I've been a perfect mother, Ann, and this is the thanks I get. Why are some children ungrateful?—HURT.

Dear Hurt: Somewhere the lines of communication broke down—or maybe there never were any. If you were "a perfect mother" your daughter wouldn't be taking her troubles next door.

Perhaps you've been too critical and she's ashamed to discuss her failures. This is usually the major complaint. If a mother wants her daughter's confidence she must be:

- (1) Shockproof.
- (2) A patient listener who shows interest in the countless details so important to a young girl.
- (3) Permit her to make a few not-so-important mistakes without saying "I told you so."
- (4) Have a sense of humor and help her daughter to laugh about the failures and disappointments instead of viewing every incident as a major calamity.
- (5) Remember those wise words "If you treat the child as the person you would LIKE him to be rather than what he IS, one day he may become that person."

You Helped Me Before

Dear Ann: You helped me once before and I hope you can do it again. I went with a girl for two and a half years. We were crazy about each other and did things which were against our better judgment. I asked her several times to marry me but she refused saying she wasn't ready to settle down.

One night she had too much to drink and made a fool of herself in front of my relatives. We had a big fight and broke up. That was 11 months ago. Shortly after that I met a lovely and refined girl who has all the good qualities this first girl lacked. We started to go steady three months ago—and there's no arguing and no drinking.

Yesterday my old flame called me at work. She says she misses me terribly, didn't know when she was well off and is ready to get married right away. The urgency of the call makes me suspect she's in a spot.

My head's in a spin. I know I was her first boy friend and I feel like a heel. What shall I do?—REXY.

Dear Rexy: If you haven't seen this girl in 11 months the "spot" she may be in has nothing to do with you. Tell her the marriage proposal wasn't a lifetime offer and that you have another girl.

Aching with Loneliness

Dear Ann: Thousands of lonely people write to you. There must be many men like myself—respectable, financially comfortable, and aching with loneliness. How wonderful if you would put us in touch with our counterparts of the opposite sex.

I live in a small community where the assortment of eligible women is limited. I'm eager to settle down but I want a woman of quality. In your vast reading audience I KNOW there's a woman for me. Think of the good you could do! Why don't you soften up?—FLYING ON ONE WING.

Dear Flying: When I start to play Dan Cupid through the mail you'll know I've "softened up" all right—in the head!

It isn't possible to check out everyone who writes and matchmaking can be hazardous even when you KNOW the people. I hate to seem hard-hearted but you lonesome souls are going to have to find each other—and good luck to everybody.

A LOVELIER YOU

FOOT-CONDITIONED TRAVEL

If you are in the midst of planning a travel wardrobe, give careful thought to your walking shoes. Your sight-seeing pleasure literally is based on foot comfort. Aching feet sap your energy, ruin your disposition and take all the joy out of a trip.

To keep walking feet happy, foot specialists recommend well-fitted leather shoes with a firm arch support and a mid-heel. Leather, with its thousands of tiny pores, permits chafing perspiration to evaporate and cool air to enter a shoe. Being pliable, leather also flexes to accommodate every movement of the foot.

On an extensive trip it is advisable to take two pairs of walking shoes. Then you can change your shoes during a long day and this rests your feet, almost as much as getting off them altogether. A change of stockings adds to foot ease, too.

Other than proper shoes, there are several ways to keep the feet comfortable. One is massaging the feet with a foot lotion before donning shoes in the morning. Another is to dust the insides of shoes with foot powder. For a third, give the feet a sudsy soak each night, and finish off with a cold spray.

YOUR GROOMING—A TO Z

Put aside your grooming doubts and worries. Send today for "Your Grooming—A to Z," a booklet that covers every step in achieving smooth looks. It tells how to manicure and pedicure, use deodorants and depilatories, bathe for beauty, tend feet, hands, teeth and eyes, polish skin and hair, care for clothes, apply perfume, overcome personal posers. To obtain your copy, write me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin.

Shopping with Sally

Little Things Mean a Lot When You're Buying Gifts

It's the little things that mean a lot—particularly if you are gift shopping or visiting from another city and want to take back some small reminder of your trip.

Here in Victoria, we have scads of small shops that cater to the individual's imagination—many of the products are locally-made or bear the "Made In Canada" stamp and others are exports from Britain, Europe or Japan.

You're paying for what you get in most cases, especially with the smaller items and there are some real bargains.

Teen topics include a new and smart-looking carry-all to wear with slacks or belted dresses. There's a leather handle on a chain to attach to your own belt. Colors vary but the price is the same $2.95.

One of the best and most useful items to be produced is the midge travel iron, recently back in stock in a local leather goods store. This dandy little gadget, at $11.95 with case and cord, is so small you can tuck it in a purse or pocket and it'll do the trick for ironing out those travel wrinkles.

New in the book marker line are leather tabs, engraved with "Do Not Disturb" in gold for only 25 cents, fishnet shopping bags in variegated shades that roll up into a neat little pom-pom for $1, a "zipper-upper"—gold-link hook for reaching that faraway back zipper, and a combination rain hat, clothes brush, nail file and comb all contained in a blue or red leather holder for 75 cents.

Gifts for the youngsters are always popular. One set that's noteworthy comes from Italy in wood. Two halves of a brightly-colored locomotive complete with wooden smoke and little figures make up a bookend set for $5.95.

We're having a heat wave and to register same, there's a brass hanging-lantern type thermometer on a wall bracket for $2.95 and another shaped like a globe for the same price.

Coffee cups are getting bigger—the latest in the man-sized department is a huge white one with a gilt base and scribbles all over it for $1.29, another for the rock 'n' roll devotees with a huge platter and a few musical notes on it, same price.

Real butterflies were pressed into the glass of one good-looking patio set with tray and four coasters. Made of wicker and glass, the set is sold with a square or oblong tray for $7.95.

Interesting effect worked in metal and ceramics was seen in light summer jewelry with a raised Mexican pueblo design in color on a brooch for $2.50, a pendant for $3 and earrings for $2.

Practical gift for a knitter would be a brass knitting bracelet that keeps the ball of wool impaled on a spike attached to your wrist. Excellent gimmick for travelling and a good buy at $1.50.

Those whimsical hats of veiling and trim are on sale at a local milliner's for $2.50.

Bridal Attendants Carried Parasols

LADYSMITH—Small white lace parasols trimmed with pink rosebuds and satin bows were carried by the bridal attendants at the wedding of Eleanor Elizabeth Campbell and Mr. Norman Brian Murray.

Baskets of pink roses and white daisies decorated the First United Church at Ladysmith, for the occasion. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Campbell, Ladysmith, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dalter Irvin Murray, of Chemarus.

Rev. Harold W. Griffin, of Memorial United Church, Carleton Place, Ont., performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length satin gown with fitted bodice and a deep shoulder yoke of fine net and a dainty crown of seed pearls. Her bouquet was red roses and white stephanotis. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Jack Campbell of Extension, B.C. Miss Nola Chalmers and Miss Sandra Counsell, of Vancouver, attending the bride, wore bouffant ballerina-length dresses of blue and white nylon with blue cummerbunds. Junior bridesmaid Miss Gloria Young of Vancouver and flower-girl Miss Kathleen McGinnis of Port Alberni, cousin of the groom, were dressed in pink.

Mr. Robert Murray was best man for his brother and ushers were Mr. Denis Weibel of Port Alberni and Mr. Bill Burgess.

The bride's cousin, Mr. John Gourlay, proposed the bridal toast at the reception in Legion Memorial Hall. A cablegram of good wishes was read from Mr. and Mrs. John Hovevar, of Ladysmith, holidaying in England.

The newlyweds will make their home in Vancouver.

Garden Notes

Move Pinks Around

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Pinks have long been a favorite flower in Victoria gardens, but have acquired a reputation of being somewhat short-lived. This is hardly deserved, for the double white variety "Mrs. Sinkins," for instance, has been grown for its delightful perfume ever since it was first propagated in 1876, and has shown no sign of decreasing vigor. This variety, incidentally, first saw the light of day in the garden of a poorhouse in Slough, England.

The reason why pinks so frequently go downhill in the home garden is because they are left too long undivided and growing in the same spot. There is no doubt but what a constitutional decline sets in after the plant has bloomed for three years undisturbed. The plant develops an increasing number of weak, flowerless shoots, while many of the buds rot off before they can open. These troubles are avoided if the plants are divided and moved every third year.

By the end of the third year, the pinks are too large to transplant bodily to a new site. There is no difficulty, though, if you divide them, and apart from the advantage of increasing your stock of plants, division and fresh soil seems to rejuvenate the plants, and they grow away with renewed vigor.

The best time to tackle this job is soon after the flowers fade. The day before lifting, give each plant a thorough watering, so the stems will be turgid with water. Lift each plant carefully, easing it out of the ground with a hand fork, and shake gently to free the roots of soil so you can see what you are doing.

On looking over your plant, you will see at once that there is a lot of useless material—the old flower stems, spindly, thin shoots, old exhausted shoots which have missed their flowering opportunity and cannot regain it. Clip off all this unwanted stuff, and everything remaining will be healthy and worthy of being included in the new plantings.

Pinks are much-branched plants, and most of the branches have roots at their base. Each of these branches having four or five shoots will make a nice young plant. Where necessary, you can bundle a few together to make up this number.

Hold the plant firmly in the left hand while you detach the branches with the right. Take hold of each branch near its base and pull outward and downward at the same time. This will give you a fair share of roots with each piece.

Get your pieces back into the ground as soon as possible, spacing them six inches apart. This can be in pockets of the rock garden, or as an edging to a bed of perennial flowers. Dig in a little leafmould or very old manure and a fairly heavy dressing of pulverized limestone, two cups per square yard, and tread firm before planting.

The plant divisions can be set into the ground quite deeply, burying all the bare stem and leaving only the foliage above ground. Water in as you plant, with a little Transplantone or vitamin B1 in the water, and arrange a bit of temporary shade for the first 48 hours.

'Black Supremacy' Sensation

By John Crosby

Mike Wallace devoted all last week to a survey of a story that I'd never heard of before—the growth of a movement for "black supremacy" in Harlem and Chicago. It's a sensational story all right—this tale of a movement that claims a quarter million members whose leaders preach hate against the whites they plan to overthrow in 1970.

The movement is not only anti-white, but anti-Christian, anti-integralist. The series had frightening film shots—very bad film, by the way—of black supremacy leader of the "Muslim" preaching that the white man is the "greatest drunkard, greatest seducer, greatest murderer, greatest adulterer, greatest deceiver on earth."

There were shots of Elijah Muhammad, a deadpan leader of the Muslims who speaks his racist nonsense with imposing authority, and of Minister Malcolm X, a leader of United African Nationalist Movement, and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, who is not in the movement.

I applaud Mr. Wallace and WNTA, which is where his program is broadcast, for digging into areas of news that have not been explored very thoroughly elsewhere. I suspect, though, that this story needs a little perspective. I don't really believe that 250,000 figure for this movement; I think the sensational aspects have been played up beyond the strict call of truth.

Still, a little enterprise on the part of a local TV station in the news field is so unusual that I don't want to discourage it. It's a splendid thing and I hope we see more of it.

Andy Williams, who had better be careful if he is not to become a permanent summer replacement, has moved his bony and relaxed face from ABC to CBS this summer, bringing the stepladders with him. As any fool knows, stepladders were invented by ABC for singers to sit on.

You'll hear a lot of good songs like "Swinging On A Star," "You'd Be So Nice to Come Home To," and "Why Was I Born?"

I think Andy Williams has a very nice personality of his own, but he apparently doesn't. Last year—unless I was imagining things—he was playing Frank Sinatra for all he was worth. This year, unless my eyes are playing me tricks, he's doing the Perry Como bit. Well, I suppose it's harmless idolatry.

Hollywood Today

Is Elvis' Love on 'Eis'?

VIENNA (NANA)—The big rumor in Vienna is that Elvis Presley will fly here in the very near future, to marry pretty ice-skater Tschekowa. The girl with the almost unpronounceable name is also a movie star, in addition to being the local lead in "Elvis Reus." If Elvis comes here, Tschekowa will have to battle for him over the screaming protests of the Viennese teenagers who adore him.

I learn in Vienna that Audrey Hepburn's next movie will be "Fanny" with Fredric March, Maurice Chevalier and Austrian actor Horst Buchholz—with Josh Logan directing in Marseilles next spring. Audrey is feeling better and more philosophical about the loss of the baby—she and Mel Ferrer had wanted so much.

Here, as in Paris and London, the girls wear their skirts at or above the knee... and in Johann Strauss-land, the female population spends more in beauty parlors than anywhere else in Europe. And how they love bleached hair à la Brigitte Bardot!

Katharine Hepburn, visiting Dirk Bogarde, who portrays Liszt in "A Magic Flame," was amazed at Dirk's dexterity at the piano after watching him hit the right notes for 84 minutes. "I had a few minutes as Mme. Schumann in a picture for Metro," said Katie, "and it was very, very difficult."

Director Josh Logan is now interested in filming the life of Maurice Chevalier, the famed French star told me. "For a while, Danny Kaye wanted to do my story. Then Arthur Freed wanted to produce it, and now Josh Logan. The project is definitely in the air. But it won't be done like the Al Jolson story. I want to be in it myself, in the last part of course. I don't like to be alive and not be in my own story."

The bidding:

West North East South

Pass Pass 3 4 S.N.T.

Pass Pass 4 4 Del.

Pass 4 N.T. All Pass

Opening lead: 4 6

It's virtually a bridge commandment that, having preempted, a player should leave further positive action to his partner. In other words, East was out of line in bidding again over South's three no-trump bid; he could have been set five tricks if North had passed South's double. However, having achieved his objective of pushing declarer one trick higher, East made a brilliant falcid to scuttle the contract.

South won East's spade seven with the queen, and led the diamond queen. West played in five, dummy played low, and East dropped the jack. Pleased with this development, declarer led another diamond and took the apparently "proven" finesse with dummy's ten. East pounced with the king, and shot back the heart nine. South ducked, West won the queen, and exited with his last spade. Now, even double-dummy play could not retrieve the situation for the hapless declarer who ended up going down three tricks.

Had South known about East's singleton heart and club queen he could have gone up with the heart ace and led a low club, thus obtaining entry to the board before his last spade stopper was gone. East could have returned a spade when he won the diamond king, but he feared that a throw-in play against his partner might establish too many tricks for declarer, or force West to give dummy an entry.

jective of pushing declarer one trick higher, East made a brilliant falcid to scuttle the contract.

South won East's spade seven with the queen, and led the diamond queen. West played in five, dummy played low, and East dropped the jack. Pleased with this development, declarer led another diamond and took the apparently "proven" finesse with dummy's ten. East pounced with the king, and shot back the heart nine. South ducked, West won the queen, and exited with his last spade. Now, even double-dummy play could not retrieve the situation for the hapless declarer who ended up going down three tricks.

Had South known about East's singleton heart and club queen he could have gone up with the heart ace and led a low club, thus obtaining entry to the board before his last spade stopper was gone. East could have returned a spade when he won the diamond king, but he feared that a throw-in play against his partner might establish too many tricks for declarer, or force West to give dummy an entry.

Two Days of Horror.

'Buried' Family Lived on Pint As Sun Blazed

MOAB, Utah (AP) — Eight

parched people and one pint of water, a spoonful at a time . . . a burning sun with only a disabled car for shade . . . a little salmon-egg fish bait for food . . . and, finally, a thirsty child's question:

"Mommy, what does it feel like to die?"

That was Diane Scott, 9, trying to sleep after almost two days of hardship.

The mother, 35-year-old Laura Scott, answered:

"It would be like going to sleep. You'd just go unconscious and gradually die."

"Will I get water in heaven?"

"Yes, honey, all you want."

Diane didn't die. Neither did Mrs. Scott, her husband Viri, 37, or their five other children, ages 4 to 12. A search plane spotted them Sunday, when their car had stranded them for two days in the remote Country of Standing Rocks.

They drove into the rugged, treeless country Friday morning to see the breathtaking view from Dead Horse Point, a bluff that overlooks the Colorado River gorge about 35 miles southeast of Moab, the nearest community.

They took some wrong turns and got lost on Shafer Trail, a boulder-crowned pair of ruts suitable only for trucks or jeeps. Scott said the car's radiator burst. He drove on, thinking they were pointed toward Moab, by now . . . more than 40 miles to the northeast. Then the crankcase oil pan ruptured and the car quit.

"We survived by keeping cool under the dirt," Scott said after their rescue; "drinking water—about a pint from the radiator, one spoonful every 2 1/2 hours. All we had to eat was some salmon eggs, and we tried to eat cactus but our mouths were so dry we couldn't swallow it . . ."

Co-op Supermarket Whopping Success

By TOM WILLIAMS

WINNIPEG (CP) — A supermarket owned by 7,300 Greater Winnipeg shoppers has completed its first year of operation, during which it did nearly $3,000,000 worth of business.

An official of the Red River Co-op Shopping Centre says that by owning their own store members of the co-operative realized a net saving, or profit, of more than $60,000 during the first 10 months.

The members—persons who own five or more shares in the co-operative—share the savings according to the amount of shopping they do in the store. They get part of it in cash and the rest in additional shares.

The $750,000 centre, first of its kind in a city the size of Winnipeg, was opened June 25, 1958. A financial report issued in April, the end of the fiscal year, showed the store attracted 250,000 shoppers who spent $2,900,000 during the first 10 months.

"We don't use give-aways or other promotional gimmicks," says Frank Syms, the centre's public relations director.

"We feel that giving the consumers the profit—we like to call it savings—on what they spend is better than offering them one chance in 100,000 to win a car or some other prize."

The centre is supplied mainly by Federated Co-ops Ltd., a $300,000,000 wholesale operation owned by 500 co-operatives between the Lakehead and the Saskatchewan-Alberta border.

It handles most "name" brand goods, as well as some produced by co-operatives.

"Our prices are competitive and in some instances lower," Mr. Syms said. "But by receiving the savings back in the form of dividends, the consumer in effect pays no more than cost for his goods."

"We're able to cut our expenses even further by doing very little advertising."

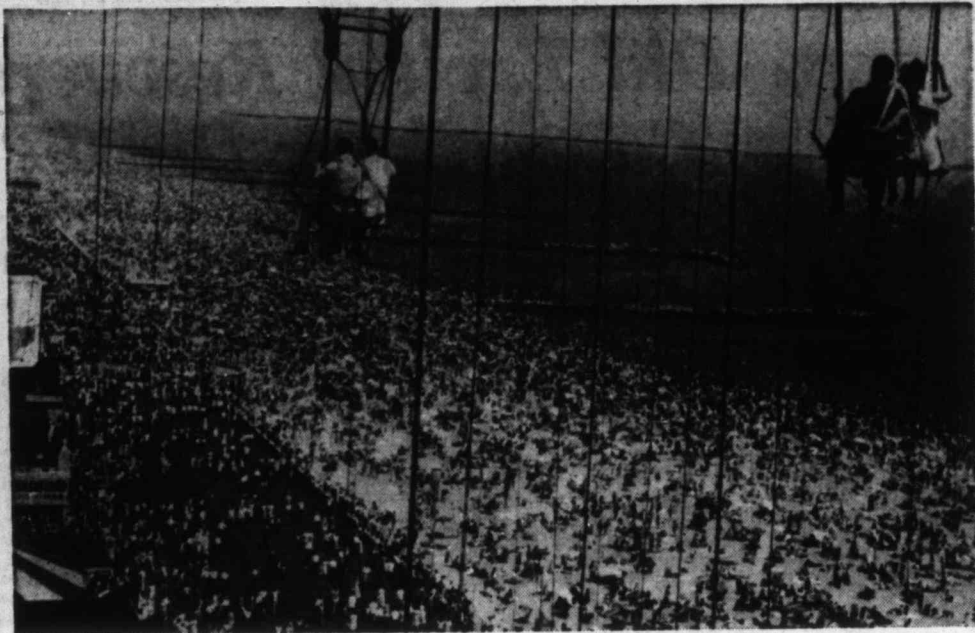

The 24-hour "warning" strike threw some 30,000 film production people out of work. It was called in protest against alleged delays in negotiations on a request by the National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employees for higher pay.

LONDON (UPI) — A lightning walkout by 4,000 key film workers shut down most of Britain's movie studios Monday.

The 24-hour "warning" strike threw some 30,000 film production people out of work. It was called in protest against alleged delays in negotiations on a request by the National Association of Theatrical and Kine Employees for higher pay.

Riding high on the parachute jump at Steeplechase Park, New Yorkers enjoy the relative privacy of the upper air as crowds of sunseekers hide the sand

Mountie Felt Bullet Rip Heart

MAILLARDVILLE, B.C. (CP)—An RCMP constable who survived a bullet wound through the heart testified Monday that after feeling the "sting of the bullet" he crouched two or three minutes waiting for his assailant to make another move.

Const. John Clark said he then walked to his car but passed out before he could make a radio call for help.

He was giving evidence at the preliminary hearing of an attempted murder charge against Basil Joe, 22, of Coquitlam, alleged to have fired the shot when the constable was investigating a reported disturbance May 31.

Witnesses testified that Joe had been fighting with two other men, including Johnny Robertson, who saved the constable's life when he drove him to hospital in the police car.

Rosie Joe, the accused's sister and fiancée of Robertson, said she saw her brother kneel in bushes near their house and shoot the constable.

Rewards of $750, $250 Follow Sect Convictions

The provincial government will pay an award of $750 and another of $250, as a result of two Sons of Freedom Doukhobor convictions.

The $750 award will go to Bartolito Castanelli, manager of the Allison Hotel at Vernon, who found a home-made bomb in the hotel washroom on June 28, 1958. Alex Konkin later was sentenced to two years in jail for possessing explosive material.

A cabinet order in council said Mr. Castanelli promptly notified RCMP when he found the bomb and his information "may have saved lives and extensive damage to property."

The $250 award goes to Peter David Brown, Kelowna, who on Aug. 13, 1958, found two men, one dead and the other injured after a premature bomb explosion.

In 1958 the government posted notice of $25,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of anyone involved in terrorist bombing activity.

'Give Her More Rest'

Scurrah Raps 'Arduous' Royal Tour

Any future royal tour of Canada should be made on a less exacting and arduous schedule than the present tour of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, Mayor Percy Scurrah said last night.

A B.C. royal tour spokesman, meanwhile, tersely answered critics who claim an "exhausting schedule" of engagements in Victoria contributed to the Queen's stomach upset on Sunday in Whitehorse, Y.T.

"It is unfortunate," the spokesman said, "but an upset stomach could hit anyone anywhere."

"The schedule here was no more exhausting than on stops in eastern Canada. In any event, the program was approved months ago, by Ottawa and Buckingham Palace."

"From all reports, by members of the royal household, Her Majesty enjoyed the two-day stay here immensely."

Expressing regret at the indisposition of the Queen, Mayor Scurrah said in an interview:

"Canada is a big country and her schedule was arduous, but of course we had nothing to do with arranging the schedule here."

"But I personally think there were too many whistle stops. I realize they wanted the people in the small towns to see her but all these stops take a toll in energy."

The mayor said he had been looking over the forthcoming Winnipeg schedule for the royal couple. There they had a "terrific number of engagements crowded into a single day of 14 or 15 hours."

Mayor Scurrah said he was not criticizing Winnipeg but merely using it as an example. There were other cities where the round of engagements was just as arduous and it is "just too much to ask of anyone."

"There are just too many functions and too many stops," he said. "Any such tour in the future should not only be less arduous but should provide more time for rest and relaxation."

After a busy schedule for her day in Vancouver last Wednesday the Queen and Prince spent two days in Victoria. Here they attended a legislative reception and march-past, went to Veterans' Hospital, a children's rally, presented colors to an army regiment and attended a civic welcome and a Government House garden party attended by 4,000 guests before flying off to Whitehorse Saturday morning.

Announce Way To Help Drain All 8 Sinus Cavities Without Discomfort

New decongestant tablet for sinus congestion sufferers acts both to drain clogged sinus cavities and relieve distressing head pain

Toronto, Ont. (Special) Announcement has been made of a new tablet development which has the remarkable ability to help drain clogged sinus cavities and thus relieve congestion and pressure. The headaches, pressure, stuffy nose, nasal drip, clogged breathing—all the unrelenting symptoms the sinus sufferer knows so well—are attacked directly by improving drainage of the sinus areas.

Most remarkable of all is the fact that this is accomplished quickly and without discomfort of any kind. This new tablet does its work internally, through the blood stream. It deposits into every drop of blood plasma a medication which is carried to the sinus area, where it shrinks the swollen doors to the sinus cavities and helps drain away the pain-causing pressure and congestion.

The shrinking substance in this new tablet has been so successful topically in promoting drainage of the sinus cavities that it is now prescribed more widely by doctors than any material for this purpose. This new medication is now available at drug counters without the need for a prescription under the name, Dristan Tablets. Dristan Tablets cost only $1.25 for a bottle of 24 tablets. Buy and use Dristan Tablets with the absolute guarantee that they will drain away pain-causing pressure and congestion of the sinus cavities, relieve the pain and distress, the sinus area, where it shrinks or purchase price will be refunded.

Weatherman Keeps City on Sun Diet

More hot, sunny days are in store for Victoria and most of Vancouver Island, weatherman William Mackie said last night.

A weak disturbance moving down through the B.C. interior will bring relief for areas east and north of here. But, for Victoria, weather will continue the same, with temperatures in the 70s and 80s.

Food Gets Blame

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Pale, wan but thoroughly relaxed and appearing healthy, Queen Elizabeth said goodbye Monday to the northland of which she saw so little.

As the Queen, forced because of an upset stomach to cancel many of her northern engagements, took off for Edmonton and another round of the royal tour of Canada she told Whitehorse Mayor George Cameron that she was sorry her visit had been disrupted.

"But I think I've got a wonderful rest out of it."

WHICH FOOD?

It was officially stated that the Queen's ailment, a severe stomach upset, was caused by food and aggravated by fatigue though, the royal doctor said, it was not known which food may have caused the trouble.

"Something she ate" first was advanced Sunday morning as the prime cause of the Queen's illness. Then the official version swung to extreme tiredness and prevailing hot weather during recent days.

NO MESSAGES

Indicating that no anxiety about the Queen is held in London, press secretary Esmond Butler said late Monday that no official messages had been received by the Queen and no communications had been received from members of her family.

Mr. Butler said the Queen was up all of this morning. He said the food which had disagreed with her probably was eaten before arrival in Whitehorse Saturday afternoon.

DISAPPOINTED

The Queen was "keen" to resume the tour and naturally had been disappointed she had had to cancel engagements this weekend.

Mr. Butler said the Queen's doctor, Surgeon-Captain Derek D. Steele-Perkins, had judged that there had been some sort of bacteria in the food.

Asked whether medicine given the Queen was castor oil, Mr. Butler replied: "It was just the opposite."

RESPONDED WELL

Mr. Butler's report at mid-afternoon press conference continued:

"The Queen has no temperature and has responded well to treatment. She has taken some medicine and the symptoms have almost disappeared."

"The Queen came down for a light breakfast with the Duke of Edinburgh in the dining room at the guest house this morning and had a light lunch downstairs."

READS, RESTS

"The Queen has spent the morning reading and resting. The doctor states that there has been absolutely no recurrence of the ailment which the Queen had last year."

Mr. Butler then read a message from the Queen's private secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa:

"The Queen is now rested but in view of the heavy program today, Monday, Surgeon-Capt. Derek Steele-Perkins has advised direct flight to Edmonton."

The decision of the Queen to cancel her part of Monday's program — visits to Yellowknife and Uranium City, Sask. — was made reluctantly, at the last moment. Prince Philip took over the remainder of the northern schedule in her place.

APOLOGIES

With him, he carried the Queen's apologies to the people who for months had looked forward to the royal visit with anticipation.

The 45-day tour of Canada has been hard on the Queen. Twelve days remain. The Queen looked extremely tired on her arrival here Saturday and it was learned later, went through the official welcoming formalities and subsequent official sightseeing visits while feeling not at all well.

Planes Circle Together

EDMONTON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip received a warm welcome to Edmonton Monday night, then were whisked away quickly to spend the night on the royal train parked on a secluded siding.

The Queen, looking well rested and showing no effects of her weekend illness that curtailed her tour of the northland, landed by plane from Whitehorse at 9.11 p.m., MST.

Her husband, who had carried on with the scheduled program at Yellowknife, N.W.T., and Uranium City, Sask., had landed in the royal Viscount three minutes earlier.

For a few minutes before the landing the two aircraft had circled together over the city.

The two met in a huge RCAF hangar at Namao air base 10 miles north of Edmonton.

A drizzle was falling as the planes came in.

The duke, wearing a raincoat and a brown hat, waited in front of the hangar until the Queen's plane touched down.

The Queen was smiling as she stepped out of the C-5 that brought her the 1,000 miles from Whitehorse in four hours.

She carried a black umbrella and wore a yellow raincoat and a yellow hat — described by a woman observer as a sailor straw — and brown shoes.

The official welcoming ceremonies in the big hangar took only 12 minutes. Then the royal couple stepped into a closed car and drove down the airfield to the royal train.

There was no official word immediately as to whether the Queen's program for today — a five-hour visit in Edmonton and a train trip to Wainwright — would be changed. A decision on that point was expected in the morning.

A crowd of about 1,000 — personnel of the base and their wives — was on to greet the Queen, who had been forced to curtail her northern tour because of an upset stomach.

In the group was the lieutenant-governor of Alberta, Dr. J. J. Bowen, Premier E. C. Manning, Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton and other officials.

He's Mellowed

Prince Consort Philip's Goal?

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (UPI) — Prince Philip is conducting a one-man public relations campaign as an almost certain preliminary to being named Prince Consort, observers believe.

There was no way of telling how soon Queen Elizabeth would ask the British Parliament to formally approve his boost from a "prince of the realm" to the nearest he can ever become to being King of England. But there has been growing speculation since the Queen and her husband started their 15,000-mile Canadian tour that the date is not far off.

Most of the speculation has sprung from Philip's actions during the tour and his relations with the press. Until a few months ago he maintained what amounted almost to a feud with newspapermen, and especially with photographers. He often lost his temper when he saw them around, and on several occasions his remarks to them were more expressive than polite.

But since the current Canadian tour started, a "new" Philip has emerged. The prince who not so long ago scowled at reporters and photographers doing their jobs now goes out of his way to be pleasant. He seems to reserve a special wave and grin for groups of correspondents he recognizes as he walks or rides past with the Queen.

A number of incidents have combined to give close observers the impression that the "new" Philip is grooming himself — or being groomed — for the new and bigger job as consort.

Crisis Close Over Berlin

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four Monday night reached the sticking point in their quest for a Berlin truce.

All the signs suggest a critical climax is at hand in the foreign ministers' seven-week talks.

Unless something unexpected happens it looks as though both the Russians and the Western Allies are about to dig in on what to each side is a vital principle of policy over Germany.

POLITICAL FUTURE

The issue: Should the East and West Germans be allowed to come together by themselves to talk about the political future of their divided land?

The Russians are insisting they must do so in one way or another. Otherwise the Allies must risk losing the Soviet offer of an 18-month freeze on the status of West Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France, with ranks closed at last, say "no" — the East and West Germans cannot settle their political fate alone. It's up to the Big Four to arrange the reunion.

SOVIET STIFFENS

The Soviet leaders seem to be stiffening their international postures.

This could be diplomatic bluff intended to wreck Western unity. But it could be that the Russians really mean what they say.

Esquimalt Investigating

Dog Pack Slaughters Poultry

A vicious dog pack recently killed 50 chickens, ducks and children's pets in Esquimalt, starting an issue that came before the municipal council last night.

Acting on recommendation of Police Chief Gilbert Stancombe, council authorized payment of $47 damages to E. P. Fleischer, 920 Admirals Road, for loss of 44 chickens and two ducks in a raid by four dogs July 1.

Council was not asked to pay for the children's pets also killed several bantam hens and three guinea pigs.

Question of ownership of the dogs has caused Esquimalt police to seek assistance from Chief John Albany of the Songhees Indian reserve, which is adjacent to the 11 acres where the Fleischer family resides.

Mr. Fleischer claimed that the dogs which attacked his chickens did not have licence tags. Police were unable to locate the animals and are not authorized to enter the nearby reserve.

Council was told that Chief Albany would conduct an investigation into the problem of dogs running loose on the

'Little Summit'

Vice-President Richard M. Nixon will hold little summit meeting with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in Moscow Sunday to discuss Berlin crisis, atomic tests, disarmament, trade and other East-West issues.

Canada's Answer:

Atomic Energy 'Doing Well'

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill stoutly defended Canada's atomic energy program Monday in the wake of criticism by an American official.

"We think we're doing pretty well in Canada," Mr. Churchill said.

LONG-RANGE PLAN

"Our atomic energy program is being worked out according to a plan devised several years ago and is coming to fruition very rapidly."

He was commenting on a Washington report quoting Dr. Willard Libby, former member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, as telling a joint congressional committee that Canada's program "is a pretty small effort."

'COULD BE BETTER'

"I think they could have done a better job," Dr. Libby testified.

Mr. Churchill said Dr. Libby is not known here and, as far as could be learned, never visited Canada in his capacity as an AEC member.

The American official had never toured the Canadian atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont.

"We always have enjoyed the friendliest relations with AEC officials in the United States," Mr. Churchill added.

Strike Emphasizes Danger from Fire

Forest service officials are alarmed that the IWA strike of coast loggers has removed experienced fire-fighters from the parched woods.

Special agreements with the IWA make provision for small standby fire warden crews to remain on duty at every logging operation, but in the event of forest fires the B.C. forest service will have to pay the full cost of fighting fires where an operation is closed down.

If the existing high forest hazard continues in the Vancouver forest district it could mean the addition of hundreds of thousands of dollars of forest fire fighting costs to provincial taxpayers.

Responsible

If the forest industries were operating the individual companies would be responsible for fighting fires in their own forest areas.

Many striking loggers have left the vicinity of the woods and if a forest fire breaks out the forest service may have to conscript inexperienced fire-fighters instead of the loggers who are trained to fight fires in the woods.

Officials said the fire hazard on Vancouver Island was rated as high yesterday, but there had been a slight moisture recovery overnight.

No Closure

There are no immediate plans for a forest closure, but if a closure becomes necessary a new plan dividing the Vancouver forest district into 10 closure areas will be placed into operation. Vancouver Island has been divided into four closure areas.

Effect will be that instead of ordering a blanket closure on a forest district only certain areas will be required to be closed as the fire hazard warrants.

Twelve new forest fires were reported over the weekend in the Vancouver forest district which includes Vancouver Island.

70 Acres

Reported now under control was the 70-acre fire at the 2,000-foot level on Mount Brenton which started Friday and has burned 250,000 feet of felled and bucked timber. Some 75 firefighters, three tractors, two tank trucks and two aerial water bombers are on duty there.

On Saturday a fire started on seven acres in the Meade Creek area near Cowichan Lake and is now being held by 64 forest service firefighters, five company men, two tractors and three tankers.

Three spot fires started in the Ganges area over the weekend and forest service officials blamed smokers and campers. All are now out. Two spot fires in the Nanaimo area were extinguished.

Water Bombs

The forest service now has six water tank-equipped Beaver aircraft patrolling B.C. forests and other local aircraft are available when required and have been equipped with water bombing equipment.

Fire patrols will be stepped up if the conditions necessitate. Water bombing aircraft were used in forest fire fighting last year. This year their use is being intensified and they will be used mainly to spot lightning strikes and then bomb them with water, slowing down the fire until firefighting crews can reach the area overland.

Forest service officials estimate that 60 per cent of fires started by lightning could be controlled by the use of aerial water bombers.

Seven Races Here

Philip's Yacht Easy to View

Victoria sailing enthusiasts will have ample opportunity to see Prince Philip's yacht Bluebottle in action in Royal Victoria Yacht Club races next month.

Skipped by her English captain, Lieut.-Cmdr. Coles, the Prince's sailing master, and with a crew drawn from local yachtsmen, the 29-foot Dragon-class sloop will take part in seven races in Cadboro Bay.

First race will be Aug. 26, followed by two races Aug. 29, three the next day and a final race Sept. 2.

The 4.9-mile course has been laid out from Cadboro Bay to a point off Willows Beach near Mary Tod Island to give spectators every chance to see the Bluebottle in competition. Each race will be twice around the course, weather permitting.

Over Labor Day weekend, probably on both Sept. 5 and 6, Bluebottle will be racing at Maple Bay.

Peter Young, R.V.Y.C. fleet captain, said yesterday four Dragons from the local club, and possibly three from Vancouver and one or two more from Seattle, will compete with Bluebottle.

The royal sloop is on a coast-to-coast goodwill tour in Canada.

Short Dip Fatal For Good Swimmer

DUNCAN—A "good" swimmer who went to take a short "dip" yesterday near her home beside Quamichan Lake before supper was found dead six feet from shore.

Mrs. Sorella Skamerud, 54, Stamps Road, was pulled from the water an hour after she left her husband "happily contemplating a short dip."

She failed to respond to efforts by the Duncan volunteer fire department inhalator crew's efforts to revive her.

"We were working around the house and she decided to go for a short dip. I can't imagine what happened. She was such a good swimmer," said her husband, Ben Skamerud.

"She left about 4.30 and I went to look for her about 5. I thought she had been gone too long, but I didn't imagine that anything horrible like this had happened," he said.

"I found her clothes and her package of cigarettes. I looked around and then I saw her arm in some weeds just six feet from shore. I can't swim so I went for help."

With his neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Bayard V. Dunkley, Mr. Skamerud pulled the body to shore with the aid of another neighbor's boat.

The dead woman and her husband moved to Duncan three years ago from Prince Rupert. They have three married children, none of which live in the district.

Mercy Flight

PORT ALBERNI—Heinz Vogt, 37, 202 Third Avenue North, was flown to Vancouver for medical treatment yesterday by B.C. Air Lines following a construction accident here.

Nature of Vogt's injuries, incurred when a reversing truck knocked over a ladder, were not known. The injured man is a carpenter.

A second emergency call during the afternoon took a B.C. Air Lines plane to San Juan, near Port Renfrew, with directions to take a man to Vancouver Hospital. The patient was reported to be aboard a Nelson Bros. fish packer off San Juan.

QUALICUM BEACH—A one-mile swim along the waterfront here will highlight the Qualicum Jamboree Day to be held Saturday starting at 10 a.m. in the Memorial Esplanade area.

The swim is open to all ages. Contestants must notify the registrar, Mrs. Betty Parker at Qualicum 4191 by tonight.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and other community organizations, the jamboree will offer rides for the children, a carnival and midway, a fireworks display, a giant salmon barbecue and street dancing.

Retiring Policeman Says

But Only for Fun

'I'd Sure Like to Blow a Safe'

95 Per Cent of People Honest, He Believes

By JACK FRY

A fingerprint expert, detective David Donaldson, about to retire after 28 years on the city police force, says that "just for fun" he would like to blow open a safe.

The Victoria-born sleuth who will retire July 31 has spent the past 22 years in the one-man fingerprint department of the downtown detective office.

He has lifted prints from hundreds of safes opened here during nearly a quarter century and can tell at a glance the work of an expert or an amateur.

He knows all the tricks of the trade, from the "small time operators" who try to chop their way into the steel boxes, to the "No. 1 Criminals" who blow them open with detonators or knock off the dials and jimmy the inner mechanism until the handle turns. "I'd like to try blowing one just for the fun," said the 60-year-old lawman in a tone that suggested he wouldn't be expecting any easy money in it.

Mr. Donaldson said he has

Skindiver Electrocuted

A well-known Victoria stock-car driver and skindiver was one of 11 British Columbians killed in accidents over the weekend.

Dick Willoughby, 27, of 1837 Crescent, was killed Sunday in a freak accident at Shoal Harbor Marine near Sidney when, after diving for a lost gasoline funnel, he grabbed a conduit as he pulled himself back on the dock.

Matilda Rush, two, of Alberni, was drowned when she fell into Alberni Inlet. She died in the same location where her mother drowned 13 months ago.

On Saturday, Leonard Bruce Kalk, 22, of 2537 Prior, died when a sports car he was driving crashed into a pole while he was returning from All Sooke Day.

Bystanders at Shoal Harbor told Sidney fishermen that Willoughby found the funnel, swam to the float, took hold of it and suddenly shouted: "I'm electrocuted. I'm electrocuted." Then he shuddered violently and sank beneath the surface.

His hand had apparently touched the galvanized cover of a 110-volt electrical cable feeding electricity to the wharf houseboats.

Bystanders said he came to the surface floating face down. Willoughby's wife Ruth and a friend, William Sim, 2644 Cedar Hill Road, grabbed a rowboat and pulled him aboard.

They began artificial respiration and when Sidney volunteer fire department arrived, firemen worked on Willoughby with oral respiration, the first time the department had used the new method.

Willoughby's color improved but firemen couldn't get his heart to start beating. Dr. C. H. Hemming ordered him taken to Rest Haven Hospital, where he cut open the diver's chest to massage the heart.

There was no response. An inquest will probably be held at 10 a.m. today at McCall's funeral home. Funeral services are tentatively set for 1.15 p.m. Thursday at McCall's.

Zoo Owner Fined $1 For Keeping Trout

NANAIMO—Zoo owner Paul Hertel was fined one dollar yesterday for keeping live trout without a licence.

The small fine was handed down by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts after hearing Hertel plead guilty.

Court was told that local fish and game department officials would place no obstacle in the way if Hertel wished to apply for a licence.

"I sympathize, but I must be bound by the act," commented the magistrate after game warden F. Greenfield asked for the minimum penalty. It turned out to be one dollar and the zoo operator was fined accordingly.

CHEMAINUS—Chemainus

Park on the shore of Fuller's Lake is nearing completion and citizens and tourists are now allowed to take part in swimming, boating and picnics.

Ninety per cent of the work during the past year has been done by local volunteers.

Recently 60 IWA members worked for a full day on the picnic area.

Sprinkling

NANAIMO—There will be no sprinkling regulations instituted in the city of Nanaimo, water board officials announced yesterday.

Nanaimo's water supply will be adequate this summer. There will, however, be restrictions placed on sprinkling in outlying areas, even though they are served by the same board.

Harewood and Departure Bay residents have been asked to observe regulations. Pipes running through those areas are not large enough to supply the increased demand.

Swimming

CHEMAINUS—More than 50 junior, intermediate and senior swimmers are attending a six-week swimming course at Kinsmen Park, Chemainus Beach, given by lifeguard Alan Goldie.

CHEMAINUS—Members of Canadian Legion Branch 191, Chemainus, playing host to the Britannia Branch of Victoria trouped their guests during a recent 18-hole golf competition at Mount Brenton Golf Club.

Transferred

LADYSMITH—Edgar Epps, fisheries inspector at Zeballos, has been transferred to Ladysmith, where he will resume his duties as inspector of this district. The position was formerly held by John Holland, who has since been transferred to Victoria.

PARKSVILLE—The hot weather has brought a rush of tourist business to this area and cars from many points in the United States and Canada are to be seen in the campsites, at motels and hotels.

Service station operators report quite a rush of business in spite of the woodworkers' strike, which would ordinarily affect business here considerably.

The beaches are thronged with visitors and some good fishing is being enjoyed off French Creek and other boating resorts in this district.

DUNCAN—Horst Howarth, a jeweler here, has been installed as president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. A "retiring roster" certificate was presented with an engraved clock to Tim Jang, retiring president.

Members of the executive are Jim Carey, first vice-president; Bruce Berry, second vice-president; Mel Massey, secretary; Jack Prasloski, treasurer; Arnie Williams and Paul Stuart, directors.

Indian Lad Nabbed In Stolen Seiner

CAMPBELL RIVER—A 15-year-old Indian boy from Alert Bay was caught near here Sunday after he sailed a stolen 45-foot seine boat belonging to ABC Packers at Alert Bay through Seymour Narrows.

Police said the craft valued at more than $40,000 was stolen about 6 a.m. Sunday and they knew it was headed south. Police at Campbell River were alerted and the craft was stopped at Quathiki Cove, opposite Campbell River.

Skipper of the vessel, Donald McDougall, later flew from Alert Bay and piloted the vessel back north.

Last stages of cleaning out two 30-foot cuts through hills on Herd Road, part of North Cowichan's $500,000 road building project, will be completed soon. Rock being removed here caused work to take three weeks longer than expected. —(Colonist photo by Charles Thompson.)

North Cowichan

Rock 'Bones' Delay Road Building

NORTH COWICHAN—Rock in trenches being cut through low hills on Herd Road has delayed this municipality's $500,000 road building program.

The work is the last bit of construction involving the rebuilding and resurfacing of 20 miles of road, this municipality's largest road program in its 70-year history.

Perry Ross, works supervisor, said the removal of "thousands of tons" of rock is nearing completion and most of the road will be blacktopped by the end of next month.

He said work has been delayed three weeks. Blacktopping will be done by the end of August.

Mr. Ross said rock "bones" were found like fingers in the two cuts of Herd Road between the highway and Osborne Bay Road.

Worst rock formations were in the east diversion, between Mays Road and the Somenos Creek where one part of a 2,700-foot-long cut had to be made 30 feet deep in one spot.

"The rock made it awkward to blast because the explosion just broke up the hardpan beneath the rock," said Mr. Ross.

Crews are now working at clearing the last bits of rock out of the diversions, he said.

The work has been contracted to Wakeman & Trimble Ltd. of Victoria.

Victoria Dogs Tops At Alberni Show

PORT ALBERNI—A Victoria couple claimed prizes for "top dogs" in Alberni Valley Kennel Club's annual show here at the weekend.

George Donaldson's boxer "Show Me" was judged best in show.

Best in sporting breeds was a German shorthair "Drum," owned by Dona Scott, Victoria, and the best sporting hound was an elkhound "Tory" shown by Gwen Jorgenson, Courtenay.

The Donaldson's entries won the awards for the working group and the terrier group, while Bev Moore, Port Alberni, showed the winner in the toy class, a Pomeranian named "Tupper."

Up-Island Business Paralyzed by Strike

Creeping paralysis from the IWA strike is spreading deeper into the economy of Vancouver Island each day.

The 27,000 woodworkers are starting their third week away from the woods.

A Colonist survey yesterday pinpointed the situation in a number of centres:

In Duncan, businessmen report business almost at a standstill. Only essentials, such as food and gasoline are being sold, while real estate is barely moving and cars and larger electrical appliances are not selling.

Bert Evans, Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce president, said: "It will take Cowichan a year to get over the strike if it lasts very long."

In Courtenay, Jake Epp, business agent of the IWA local, said all pickets have been taken in from the Courtenay-Campbell River area because of the fire hazard. Pickets are being kept on main highways and at booming grounds.

More than 100 men went back to work yesterday for small operators, who "have met the full 20 per cent wage increase," he said.

"Business has dropped considerably during the past two weeks," he said. "I am quite sure the business districts here are well aware of the strike and the situation will certainly get worse."

In Port Alberni, merchants said business is dropping every day and many of the strikers have gone on holiday, which could make things worse.

In Victoria, the situation was a little brighter than most up-island points.

John Coppinger, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said "actual tabulations are not determined for different businesses. The strike is definitely being felt, but we don't know exactly to what degree."

IWA official Jack MacKenzie said "there is no doubt that business is feeling the effect and it will gradually get worse."

All production in all operations that did vote for a strike has been brought to a standstill, he said. "It is a fight to the finish."

Food Gets Blame

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Pale and wan, but thoroughly relaxed and appearing healthy, Queen Elizabeth said goodbye Monday to the northland of which she saw so little.

As the Queen, forced because of an upset stomach to cancel many of her northern engagements, took off for Edmonton and another round of the royal tour of Canada she told Whitehorse Mayor George Cameron that she was sorry her visit had been disrupted.

"But I think I've got a wonderful rest out of it."

It was officially stated that the Queen's ailment, a severe stomach upset, was caused by food and aggravated by fatigue. The royal doctor said it was not known which food may have caused the trouble. "Something she ate" first was advanced Sunday morning as the prime cause, of the Queen's illness. Then the official version swung to extreme tiredness and prevailing hot weather during recent days.

NO MESSAGES
Indicating that no anxiety about the Queen is held in London, press secretary Desmond Butler said late Monday that no official messages had been received by the Queen and no communications had been received from members of her family.

Mr. Butler said the Queen was up all of this morning. He said the food which had disagreed with her probably was eaten before arrival in Whitehorse Saturday afternoon.

DISAPPOINTED
The Queen was "keen" to resume the tour and naturally had been disappointed she had had to cancel engagements this weekend.

Mr. Butler said the Queen's doctor, Surgeon-Captain Derek D. Steele-Perkins, had judged that there had been some sort of bacteria in the food.

Asked whether medicine given the Queen was castor oil, Mr. Butler replied: "It was just the opposite."

Mr. Butler's report at mid-afternoon press conference continued: "The Queen has no temperature and has responded well to treatment. She has taken some medicine and the symptoms have almost disappeared."

The Queen came down for a light breakfast with the Duke of Edinburgh in the dining room at the guest house this morning and had a light lunch downstairs.

READS, RESTS
The Queen has spent the morning reading and resting. The doctor states that there has been absolutely no recurrence of the sinusitis which the Queen had last year.

Mr. Butler then read a message from the Queen's private secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker in Ottawa:

"The Queen is now rested but in view of the heavy program today, Monday, Surgeon-Capt. Derek Steele-Perkins has advised direct flight to Edmonton."

The decision of the Queen to cancel her part of Monday's program — visits to Yellowknife and Uranium City, Sask. — was made reluctantly, at the last moment, Prince Philip took over the remainder of the northern schedule in her place.

With him, he carried the Queen's apologies to the people who for months had looked forward to the royal visit with anticipation.

The 45-day tour of Canada has been hard on the Queen. Twelve days remain. The Queen looked extremely tired on her arrival here, Saturday, and it was learned later, went through the official welcoming formalities and subsequent official sightseeing visits while feeling not at all well.

Tour Goes Ahead

QUEEN ELIZABETH
... pale but healthy

EDMONTON (CP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip received a warm welcome to Edmonton Monday night, then were whisked away quickly to spend the night on the royal train parked on a secluded siding.

The Queen, looking well rested and showing no effects of her weekend illness that curtailed her tour of the northland, landed by plane from Whitehorse at 9.11 p.m. PDT.

CARRIED ON
Her husband, who had carried on with the scheduled program at Yellowknife, N.W.T., and Uranium City, Sask., had landed in the royal Viscount three minutes earlier.

For a few minutes before the landing the two aircraft had circled together over the city.

The two met in a huge RCAF hangar at Namao air base 10 miles north of Edmonton.

WINDY FALLING

A drizzle was falling as the planes came in. The Queen was smiling as she stepped out of the C-5 that brought her the 1,000 miles from Whitehorse in four hours.

She carried a black umbrella and wore a yellow raincoat and a yellow hat — described by a woman observer as a sailor straw — and brown shoes.

The official welcoming ceremonies in the big hangar took only 12 minutes. Then the royal couple stepped into a closed car and drove down the airfield to the royal train.

DECISION TODAY
There was no official word immediately as to whether the Queen's program for today — a five-hour visit in Edmonton and a train trip to Wainwright — would be changed. A decision on that point was expected in the morning.

A crowd of about 1,000 — personnel of the base and their wives — was on to greet the Queen, who had been forced to curtail her northern tour because of an upset stomach.

In the group was the lieutenant-governor of Alberta, Dr. J. J. Bowlen, Premier E. C. Manning, Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton and other officials.

He's Mellowed

Prince Consort Philip's Goal?

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (UPI) — Prince Philip is conducting a one-man public relations campaign as an almost certain preliminary to being named Prince Consort, observers believe.

There was no way of telling how soon Queen Elizabeth would ask the British Parliament to approve formally his boost from a "prince of the realm" to the nearest he can ever become to being King of England. But there has been growing speculation since the Queen and her husband started their 15,000-mile Canadian tour that the date is not far off.

Most of the speculation has sprung from Philip's actions during the tour and his relations with the press. Until a few months ago he maintained what amounted almost to a feud with newspapermen, and especially with photographers. He often lost his temper when he saw them around, and on several occasions his remarks to them were more expressive than polite.

But since the current Canadian tour started, a "new" Philip has emerged.

The prince who not so long ago scowled at reporters and photographers doing their jobs now goes out of his way to be pleasant. He seems to reserve a special wave and grin for groups of correspondents he recognizes as he walks or rides past with the Queen.

A number of incidents have combined to give close observers the impression that the "new" Philip is grooming himself — or being groomed — for the new and bigger job as consort.

Crisis Close Over Berlin

GENEVA (AP) — The Big Four Monday night reached the sticking point in their quest for a Berlin truce.

All the signs suggest a critical climax is at hand in the foreign ministers' seven-week talks.

Unless something unexpected happens it looks as though both the Russians and the Western Allies are about to dig in on what to each side is a vital principle of policy over Germany.

POLITICAL FUTURE

The issue:
Should the East and West Germans be allowed to come together by themselves to talk about the political future of their divided land?

The Russians are insisting they must do so in one way or another. Otherwise the Allies must risk losing the Soviet offer of an 18-month freeze on the status of West Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France, with ranks closed at last, say "no" — the East and West Germans cannot settle their political fate alone. It's up to the Big Four to arrange the reunion.

SOVIET STIFFENS

The Soviet leaders seem to be stiffening their international postures.

This could be diplomatic bluff intended to wreck Western unity. But it could be that the Russians really mean what they say.

Bolivia Lifts 'Siege' State

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Full civil rights were restored throughout Bolivia Monday with the ending of a 90-day state of siege decreed by President Hernan Siles in April following a revolt.

Dog Pack Slaughters Poultry

A vicious dog pack recently killed 50 chickens, ducks and children's pets in Esquimalt, starting an issue that came before the municipal council last night.

Fires Probed In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three Sunday morning fires here, including a $250,000 tannery blaze in False Creek area, are under investigation for arson.

Chief fire warden Louis Mulligan said his department is working on the possibility that all three could be the work of one person.

One May Lose Arm

Rattlers Attack Snake Cultists

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — Bitten three times by a pair of rattlesnakes, a member of a snake-handling religious group is under hospital care and doctors said he might lose his left arm.

"I've not got no fight against medicine," said 34-year-old Earl Adkins. "If you can't get hold of the power of God, medicine is a wonderful thing."

A timber rattler and a diamond back snake, each about 3½ feet long, bit Adkins on his left wrist Saturday night as he was taking the snakes from a box at his home prior to religious services.

In an adjoining county, 51-year-old James Estep was bitten by a four-foot rattlesnake Sunday but refused medical care.

"I'm letting the Lord do my doctoring," he said.

Neighbors reported Monday the swelling in Estep's arm appeared to be going down.

The cult's doctrine requires members to handle snakes to test their faith. The bitten men live in a mountainous region of eastern Kentucky.

Canada's Answer:

Atomic Energy 'Doing Well'

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill stoutly defended Canada's atomic energy program Monday in the wake of criticism by an American official.

"We think we're doing pretty well in Canada," Mr. Churchill said.

LONG-RANGE PLAN

"Our atomic energy program is being worked out according to a plan devised several years ago and is coming to fruition very rapidly."

He was commenting on a Washington report quoting Dr. Willard Libby, former member of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, as telling a joint congressional committee that Canada's program "is a pretty small effort."

'COULD BE BETTER'

"I think they could have done a better job," Dr. Libby testified.

Mr. Churchill said Dr. Libby is not known here and, as far as could be learned, never visited Canada in his capacity as an AEC member.

The American official had never toured the Canadian atomic plant at Chalk River, Ont.

"We always have enjoyed the friendliest relations with AEC officials in the United States," Mr. Churchill added.

Boat Sinking, 40 Rescued

GANANQUE, Ont. (AP) — Forty American and Canadian tourists were safely removed from the fully-loaded Thousand Islands tour boat Island Wanderer II which partially sank Monday night after striking a shoal three miles south of here in the St. Lawrence River.

Iraq Battle Still Raging

CAIRO (Reuters) — Fighting between pro-Communist and government forces still is raging in northern Iraq, reports reaching here said.

Communists were reported to have killed the deputy commander of the Iraqi army's second division and dragged his body through the streets of Kirkuk, centre of the nation's oil industry.

They were also reported to have stormed a suburban police station in Kirkuk, looting the armory.

It was also reported the Iraqi air force had bombed rebel positions in Kirkuk.

Chickens, Pets Killed

acres where the Fleischer family resides.

Mr. Fleischer claimed that the dogs which attacked the chickens did not have licence tags. Police were unable to locate the animals and are not authorized to enter the nearby reserve.

Council was told that Chief Albany would conduct an investigation into the problem of dogs running loose on the reserve while their owners are working elsewhere picking berries.

Chief Albany said Mr. Fleischer would have to identify the dogs as being from the reserve before any restitution would be made by the Indians.

But, he also said that he would have the dogs shot if he learns through his own investigations that Indian dogs were responsible.
